One day, Sky had a daughter named Ilmater. She went down to the waters to find a resting place. She swam for 700 years and let a bird sit on her knee. The bird laid 6 golden eggs and 1 iron egg. When the bird incubated its eggs it burned her knee she jerking her leg causing the eggs to break and one formed land and stars. She then created land.

One day, before the earth was made, there was just water. Obatala went to the other gods to ask for all their gold and melted it down to create a chain. Next, he found a shell, palm nut, coxing and chicken. He poured sand onto the water to create land. He then planted the nut to make trees. He made man!

Lo: crime and punishment

I find that it depends on who and how they killed someone. An accidental kill would be life in prison or something like that. 3 or more kills life sentence. If they kill someone like the prime minister then they should be sentenced to death.

The Prophet Muhammad

Muhammad was born around 570 in the trading city of Makkah. Before he died in 632 he had changed the lives of many people. Who was Muhammad?

An orphan boy

Muhammad was born into a noble tribe called the Quraysh. His father died before he was born, and his mother died when he was 6 years old. As an orphan he was looked after by his grandfather and when he died, by his uncle who was a merchant. When he was older, he became a trader for a rich widow called Khadijah, working as the leader of her caravans. He had done such an impressive job with profits through honesty (rather than cheating people like a lot of traders did in those days) that Khadijah asked him to marry her. Muhammad was 25 when he married Khadijah.

He was well known all over Makkah to be the most honest and hard-working man and was nicknamed 'Al-Amin' meaning 'The trustworthy'. Even the chiefs of the Quraysh praised him for this. Everyone knew that when Muhammad spoke, he always spoke the truth.

An Uphill struggle

Muhammad and his followers were persecuted for their beliefs by the powerful people of Makkah including the Quraysh. They feared they would lose their money, religion and power.

They made up things about Muhammad so that people would not listen to him.

They called him a liar and a madman. Many people questioned this though as he was once known as 'Al-Amin'. If this was the case, why would he lie about this matter? In 622CE Muhammad left Makkah. He and his followers were invited to live in Madinah (about 400 km away). His departure, (Hijrah), was important because it was at Madinah that Muhammad set up the first Islamic community. Muslims begin their calendar from this date, the first year of hijrah. The Islamic calendar therefore reads AH 1 when the Christian calendar reads 622 CE. This symbolises leaving behind darkness (disbelief) and moving into a new era full of light (belief).

The moment of revelation

According to Islamic teaching, the word of God was revealed through Muhammad in the year 610 CE (AD), when he was 40. God revealed his final message to mankind (about believing in the one God and worshipping the one God, and to lead good and honest lives etc.) through Muhammad. The same message that was delivered to all the other Prophets yet which had been distorted and corrupted over the centuries.

Muhammad was sitting in a cave on Mount Hira, just outside of the city of Makkah, when God spoke to him through the angel Jibril (Gabriel). These revelations happened again and again. In the year 613 CE Muhammad started preaching openly, he told the people of Makkah that there was only one God, and that God had created the world and everything in it. Since there was only one God it was wrong to worship statues and different gods.

At first there was a lot of opposition to Muhammad. His followers were beaten by people who did not want to give up their old way of life. Many people (including traders) did not like his teachings that duty to God, or Allah, was more important than family or tribe. They persecuted his followers for their new faith. The people were not willing to give up their ways of worshipping trees or rocks etc. The Quraysh were especially and extremely angry with Muhammad and his followers. They were losing business in Makkah due to Muhammad making these claims of one God.

The conquest of Makkah

Battles took place between the Muslims in Madinah and the people of Makkah. In 630CE the Muslims were beaten in one of the battles. Muhammad came back to his hometown - Makkah. The idols were taken from the Ka'ba and destroyed. It was cleansed from the idols. Makkah finally became a Muslim City.

The death of the Prophet

Islam spread very quickly in Arabia. In 632CE Muhammad became ill and died. He was buried in Madinah next to the mosque. Later, the mosque got built up and today is one of the most beautiful mosques in the world.

Monday 28 March Hinduism beliefs about god

What is god to me?

I think that god does exist, while others believe he is a celestial being who controls all. I perceive god as a woman as it does exist because god created events like women give birth on earth. I don't believe god is a person but isn't not a human. To be it just feels to see sacred to be true.

The trimurti:

- Brahma
 - Vishnu
 - Shiva
- } three main gods

Brahma:

- first of the trimurti
- he is the creator
- he has 4 heads.
- he is often pictured holding beads, holy scripture, shaver, water holder.
- seen sitting on a lotus flower.

Vishnu:

- he is one of the most important
- he is the preserver
- he has 4 arms holding a conch shell, discus, lotus, mace.
- you find him sitting/standing on a snake.

Death and Funerals

The death of a loved one can affect people negatively as it would make them sad and depressed if they are very closely.
 People have funerals to remember loved ones lives and deaths.

'Capital punishment is a fair way to judge crimes committed by individuals'
To what extent do you agree?

- Defined the term 'capital punishment'?
- Discussed the countries that are still using it within their legal systems?
- Commented on the countries that have removed it from their procedures?
- Given a clear, justified opinion on whether they think it is right or wrong?
- Discussed the terms morality, ethics and justice within their answer.
- Shown understanding of why someone may share a different point of view to them.

It has led the debate of whether it is a crime. Is it really to punish or to kill? Is it a tool to reform or to punish?

Challenge: There is the 'Japanese Argument' that suggests capital punishment helps the majority and works for the greater good. Research this concept and try to explain it within your answer.

Capital punishment is also known as the death penalty, punishing someone with death. Countries who still use capital punishment are China, The USA, Saudi Arabia and Pakistan. I think the capital punishment should be abolished everywhere because everyone has the right to live. It is also brutalising to society and degrading. The death penalty shows no morality, ethics, or justice.

Discuss: Brahman (God) most commonly refers to an unchanging ultimate reality which many Hindus believe exists beyond the always-changing, everyday world. Brahman (God) is described firstly through the Trimurti - The Hindu Trinity.

Task: What questions would you ask the Hindu Trinity?

What do you think are the most common questions Hindus want to ask?

Reflect: This is the Hindu Trinity (Trimurti). They are the three Faces of God, Brahma, Vishnu, Shiva. They have three Cosmic Functions and they work together in a never-ending pattern.

- Creation + Preservation + Dissolution
- Generator + Operator + Destroyer = GOD
- Is this a positive acronym in your opinion?

Questions for Brahma:

- What does he create?
- Why does he have 4 heads?
- What's the use of his heads?
- Why is he often pictured holding a holy scripture?

Vishnu:

- Why does he ride a bird?
- Why does he hold those specific things?
- Why does he sit/stand on a snake?

Shiva:

- What does he use his trident for?
- Why does he ride a white bull?
- Why does he wear tiger skin?
- Why does he need a third eye?

The Salt

Legend has it that a wise man taught his son about Brahman by asking him first to put some salt in water and then to take it out again.

- Of course, the salt dissolved and the son could not take it out. His father told him that the presence of Brahman in the world is like the salt in the water; invisible but everywhere.

Task:

Brahman is likened to salt dissolving in water;

Q1: Why do you think this is a particularly useful illustration? Discuss and write in 1 paragraph

Hindu beliefs about God - Movie

Hindus believe that God is everything. There are 3 Gods families decide which God to pray to. There is a different God for different needs.
