

Sprite Class

We are having such a wonderful term so far. As a year group, we have been learning all about migration and having some fantastic discussions about moving around the world for a range of different reasons. As part of our topic, we have produced a lot of writing. Take a look at some of our persuasive texts, newspaper reports and formal letters.

Firstly, I would like to start by explaining to you about why we should welcome refugees and for you to understand how they are stripped by their basic human rights. To start of, I would like to tell you how in 2011 conflicts began in Syria and believe it or not some children arrive at refugee camps by themselves, unsupervised with no adult. Unlike many people say, refugees are just regular people that used to have regular life but because of bombs they are having to move and leave so many things, including: water, shelter (that is being bombed) and other simple things that all humans should have.

Our next argument is for you to acknowledge the significance of why all refugees deserve to live in a community like ours. It is crystal clear that all Syrian families are should be at of harms way and there is no doubt that our society has an excellent and outstanding quality education that can help every kids dreams. Together we shall take matters into our own hands. There's no reason for us to not help

Firstly, this act of co-...
To start our argument, this act of conflict began in 2011, leading thousands of innocent people to be caught up in the violence. They have had to leave all their valuable belongings behind. How would you feel if people never made you feel welcome? Some citizens have taken the unsafe journey to find a safe place (which they can call home). These poor people have not had their rights made. Starting with article 38 'You have the right to help if you have been hurt, neglected or badly treated. This is just the beginning. They have witnessed much more in their living conditions.

In support of this, our country, together we can provide these refugees with anything they need. Helping them to build a brighter future for them and their children. Syrian asylum seekers are normal people. There is no doubt, that we can provide a small amount of the 26,000 with a well deserved quality education. We can even allow the refugees to carry on their careers. By offering this, they can start to get their lives back on track. Living in Europe, will give them a much safer place to live and a friendly environment (where they can get to know their neighbours).

Already, these people have suffered enough. They are now living in refugee camps - which is a very hard environment for young children to live in. The least we could do is offer them a safe home. The government have already put the effort in to make refugee camps more home like. They have even allowed 3,000 refugee children into the country. However, we want all 26,000 children to be rehomed. They have lost valuables and loved ones. We need to help.
