Introduction to the Labour Market and the Blackpool, Fylde and Wyre Travel to Work Area

The Labour Market includes the supply of labour by households and the demand for labour from employers.

The Supply of Labour is made up of the people who live and/or work in the area, the skills they have and the number of hours they want to work.

The Demand for Labour comes from employers (businesses and public sector organisations) – what they need in terms of skills and the number of hours they need people to work.

When there is a mismatch between supply and demand:

Some people might be unemployed, or unable to find the type of job they want to do.

Some employers might not be able to find the workers they need, or might have to make do with workers who don't have quite the right skills for the job.

A Travel to Work Area is where most of the people who live in the area also work there. Not everyone who lives in Blackpool, Fylde and Wyre works there – some people commute to jobs in the surrounding area.

Across the labour market as a whole, the number of jobs requiring higher level skills and qualifications has been increasing.

How much do people in different jobs earn?

Different jobs require different levels of skills, qualifications and experience, and pay different levels of wages. Where you live also affects how much you earn – people who live in more expensive areas (like London) need higher wages because the costs of living (like rent and travel costs) are higher.

Average (median) full-time earnings range from £22,900 a year for people who live in Blackpool, to £30,500 for people living in Fylde.

Jobs available in Blackpool, Fylde and Wyre

Employers are classed as being in different 'sectors', according to what they make or do.

Some jobs are found in all sectors (e.g. Managers, Finance Officers, IT workers and people with digital skills); others are concentrated in particular sectors (e.g. Bricklayers work in the construction sector, Doctors work in the health sector).

The largest sectors in Blackpool, Fylde and Wyre, and the jobs available within them, are shown below:

The economy and labour market are always changing, with jobs being lost and new ones created.

Some job opportunities arise because businesses or sectors are growing.

Others come about because of 'churn' within the labour market – when current workers change jobs or retire. This is called 'replacement demand'.

Every year, there are thousands of job opportunities in Blackpool, Fylde and Wyre.

These charts show how many job opportunities are expected to be created each year. The visitor economy and the wholesale and retail sector both have a lot of 'churn' (people moving jobs), so will have the highest number of opportunities.

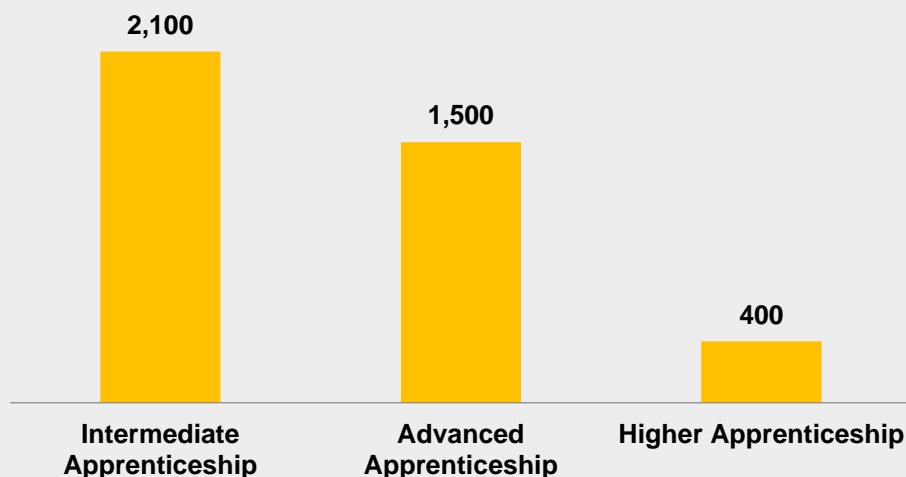

Demand is increasing for workers with higher level qualifications (level 3 and 4) and apprenticeships.

Demand for workers with no and lower level qualifications is expected to continue to fall.

More employers are choosing apprenticeships as a way to get the people and skills they need. An apprenticeship gives people hands-on experience, a salary and the opportunity to train while they work, in a range of different industries.

3,950 people started an apprenticeship in Blackpool, Fylde and Wyre in 2016/17. Nearly half of these were advanced or higher level apprenticeships.

Apprenticeship starts are broadly in line with the main employment sectors:

- Health, public services and care can prepare you for the health and social work sector.
- Business, administration and law for a career in the financial and professional services.
- Retail and commercial enterprise for the retail, wholesale and other services sectors.
