Understanding The World

This week Roy the zebra tried another type of transport...Can you remember what it was?

Dance along with Debbie Doo to remind yourself of all the different types of transport we looked at last week.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fGEyttZb5Qk>

Can you find pictures of different types of transport either in magazines or print them from the internet and sort them into groups "Air, Road, Water?"

Have a go at making some paper planes/ boats and see how they float and fly!

Here are some instructions if you need help.

You could even set up a floating and sinking experiment at home to see if you can find any objects that can travel along the water like a boat! We would love to see your results on our class email.

Maths

This week in our story Roy and George went to a shop. Have a go at playing shops at home using 1p coins. You could ask an adult to make some price labels for you and practice handing over between 1 and 10 1p coins to buy different items you have at home.

Or have a go at this shopping game online using 1p coins to buy different items from the shop.

Physical Development

Roy and George have travelled on lots of different types of transport throughout the story.

Fine/gross motor practice: Can you use big and small materials from around your house to create a vehicle of your own?

We would love to see your vehicle pictures on our class email!

Why not design a road in your garden with chalk and follow the road on your bike or scooter! If you don't have a bike you could practice different ways of moving e.g running, jumping or even skipping.

Expressive Arts and Design

Roy the Zebra went to the movies this week. have a think about your favourite movie, who was your favourite character? What happened in the story? Where was the story set? Can you design a dvd cover for the film? Here are some examples to give you some ideas!

Home cinema role play: Watch or act out your favourite movie at home with your family you could even make some cinema snacks to enjoy together!

Personal, social, emotional development

This week in the story Roy met even more new people, the story explained that everybody looked different and liked different things but could still all be friends and have fun together!

Listen to the Yo gabba gabba song all about friends and how they are different but that's ok!

Have a look in a mirror or at a photograph, can you create a picture of yourself and think about the things that make you unique. i.e. hair colour, glasses, what food you like, what pets you have then send your finished pictures into our email 1P@park.blackpool.sch.uk so we can put them altogether and create a class collage because in 1P we are all different but that's okay because we still have lots of fun together!
