

demolish history

LOOKING BACK

It's around 1959, and Mrs Stones' class at Penwortham Secondary Modern School found themselves visiting Ingleton Falls. Tonight's contributor, Mrs Aughton from Tarleton, recalls it well: "I remember the stalactites and stalagmites and the absolute blackness when the lights were switched off. I was glad to get back to daylight!" You can see her face on the back row, between the teachers.