Introduction to the Labour Market and the Preston, Chorley and South Ribble Travel to Work Area

The Labour Market includes the supply of labour by households and the demand for labour from employers.

The Supply of Labour is made up of the people who live and/or work in the area, the skills they have and the number of hours they want to work.

The Demand for Labour comes from employers (businesses and public sector organisations) – what they need in terms of skills and the number of hours they need people to work.

When there is a mismatch between supply and demand:

Some people might be unemployed, or unable to find the type of job they want to do.

Some employers might not be able to find the workers they need, or might have to make do with workers who don't have quite the right skills for the job.

A Travel to Work Area is where most of the people who live in the area also work there. Not everyone who lives in Preston, Chorley and South Ribble works there – some people commute to jobs in the surrounding area.

366,300	People live in the area
231,700	Are of 'working age' (aged 16-64 years)
176,600	Are in work
Seven-tenths	Work within Preston, Chorley and South Ribble
Three-tenths	Work outside the area (mainly in Fylde)
52,400	People of working age aren't in work

There are lots of reasons why working age people aren't in work:

11,900	Have retired early or have 'other' reasons for not working
11,700	Are looking after the family or home
11,300	Are students
9,500	Have a long-term illness which means they can't work
6,300	Are unemployed

Across the labour market as a whole, the number of jobs requiring higher level skills and qualifications has been increasing.

How much do people in different jobs earn?

Different jobs require different levels of skills, qualifications and experience, and pay different levels of wages. Where you live also affects how much you earn – people who live in more expensive areas (like London) need higher wages because the costs of living (like rent and travel costs) are higher.

Average (median) full-time earnings range from £24,700 a year for people who live in Preston, to £27,400 for people living in Chorley.

The table below shows average salaries for some jobs. This is based on national data – wages in Preston, Chorley and South Ribble are likely to be lower, because the cost of living here is lower.

Employers are classed as being in different 'sectors', according to what they make or do.

Some jobs are found in all sectors (e.g. Managers, Finance Officers, IT workers and people with digital skills); others are concentrated in particular sectors (e.g. Bricklayers work in the construction sector, Doctors work in the health sector).

The largest sectors in Preston, Chorley and South Ribble, and the jobs available within them, are shown below:

The economy and labour market are always changing, with jobs being lost and new ones created.

Some job opportunities arise because businesses or sectors are growing.

Others come about because of 'churn' within the labour market – when current workers change jobs or retire. This is called 'replacement demand'.

Every year, there are thousands of job opportunities in Preston, Chorley and South Ribble.

These charts show how many job opportunities are expected to be created each year. The financial and professional services sector is expected to have the highest number of opportunities.

Demand is increasing for workers with higher level qualifications (level 3 and 4) and apprenticeships.

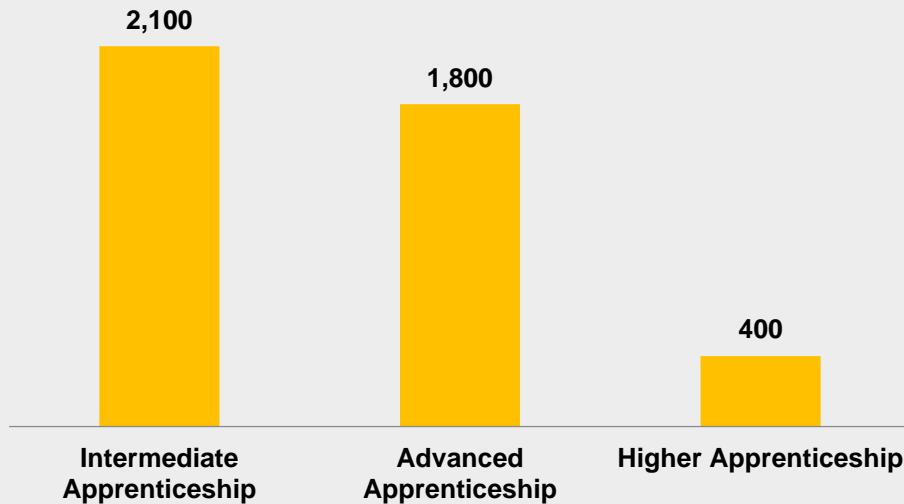

Demand for workers with no and lower level qualifications is expected to continue to fall.

Apprenticeships

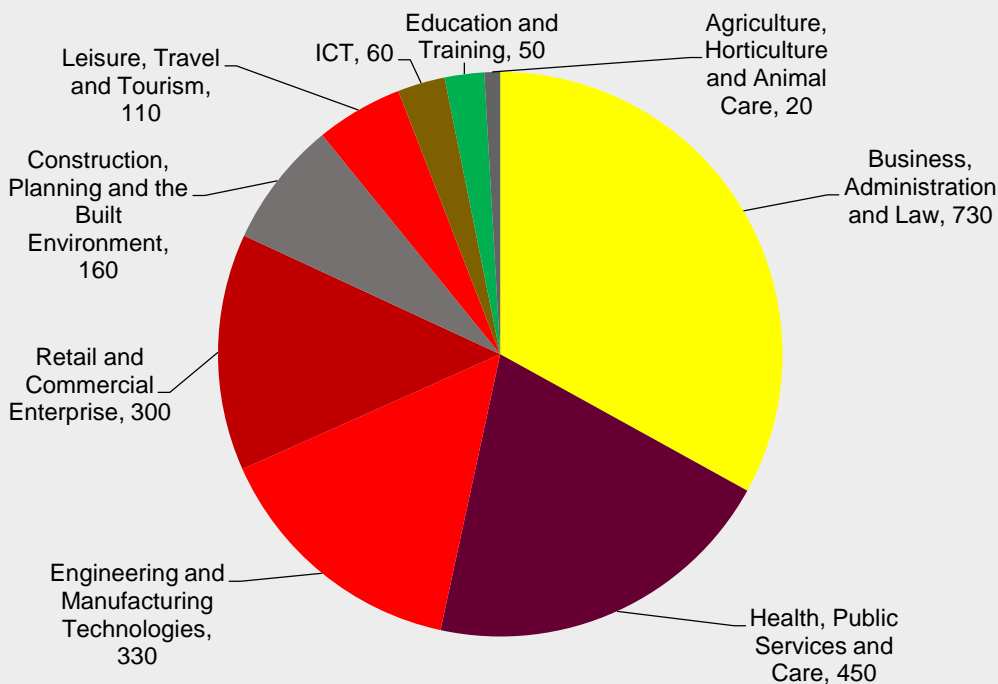

More employers are choosing apprenticeships as a way to get the people and skills they need. An apprenticeship gives people hands-on experience, a salary and the opportunity to train while they work, in a range of different industries.

4,270 people started an apprenticeship in Preston, Chorley and South Ribble in 2016/17. Just over half of these were advanced or higher level apprenticeships.

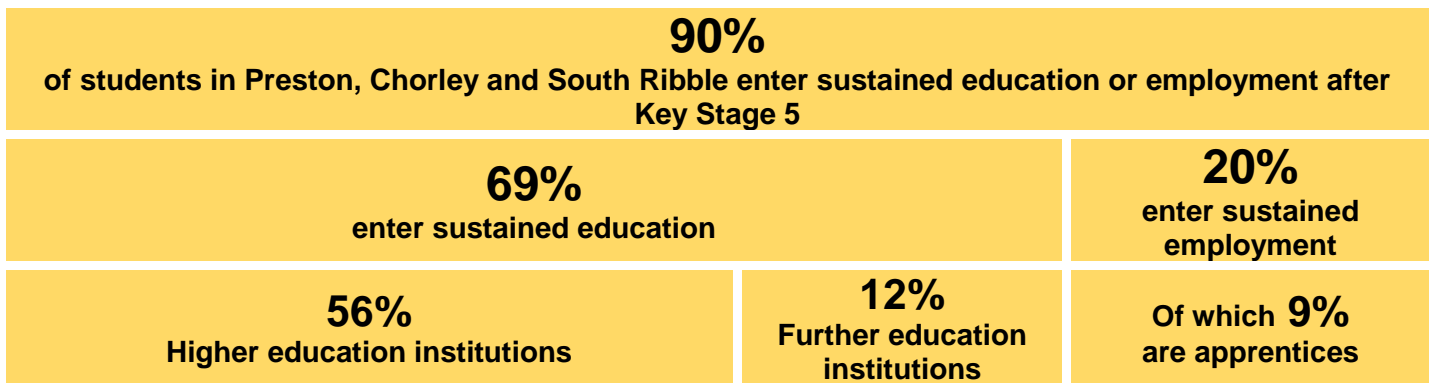

Apprenticeship starts are broadly in line with the main employment sectors:

- Business, administration and law can prepare you for a career in the financial and professional services.
- Health, public services and care for the health and social work sector.
- Engineering and manufacturing technologies for the advanced manufacturing sector.
