

Year 6 Spellings – to be tested Tuesday 4th

May

invention

The invention of the computer was something that changed the world forever.

injection

After the injection, the pain began to wear off.

action

'Lights, Camera, Action' shouted the director.

hesitation

He stuck up for his friend without hesitation.

completion

They played the game until 100% completion.

fraction

Mr Blackburn asked for remainders in the form of a fraction.

mention

There are a few things I forgot to mention earlier.

detention

He failed to complete his homework and ended up in detention.

comprehension

They completed a comprehension to develop their reading skills.

tension

After the argument there was some awkward tension in the room.

Mr Blackburn's group

Year 6 Spellings – to be tested Tuesday 4th

May

finally

Sarah finally completed the question she had been struggling with.

completely

Hayden completely finished the book he had been reading.

happily

“They lived happily ever after” is a common ending to fairy tales.

gently

Emily gently stroked the black and white cat.

actually

How much reading do you actually do each week?

carefully

She carefully whisked the egg and butter in her bowl.

probably

His plan will probably not work.

luckily

The boy fell over but luckily he did not injure himself.

Mrs Gibson’s and Miss Anderson-Jones’

group