HIGH SCHOOL

Curriculum
Intent for History

We aim to make our students the best historians they can be. We challenge students to think like historians by researching thoroughly, weighing-up evidence, understanding chronology, evaluating interpretations and developing arguments. We do this by ensuring all students develop the range of skills needed to become confident in their own opinions, able to make well supported judgements and to express them articulately using keywords from topics and historical vocabulary. At Rayner Stephens we believe that the transferable skills gained in history are essential for life in the 21st century. We teach students the importance of challenging the provenance of information, evaluating different interpretations, and processing large amounts of information to create a coherent argument. We teach empathy and tolerance and an understanding of how history has created the world we live in today.

Year 8 - History

Curriculum intent	Knowledge of history is key to understanding the world around us and our place within it. Students will be building on both the key skills and the knowledge they acquired last year. They will be examining the continuing development of the role of the monarchy and its conflict with parliament alongside the continuing importance of religion in early modern Britain. They examine how Britain interacted with the wider world both in the development of the British Empire and the slave trade and how both of these developments affected Britain and the wider world. Students will chart the developing role and power of parliament and how people fought for and achieved greater rights before completing the year by examining the causes of World War One and how common misconception have shaped our understanding of the events of the Great War. Throughout the year learners will be building and developing the key literacy and historical skills they were introduced to in year 7

Soldiers called in to stop the protest and 18 people died and 650 injured. Initially the impact was negative as Henry Hunt was arrested and radical newspapers were shut down and meetings of over 50 people were made illegal. However in the long run it inspired the 1832 Great Reform Act and led to the establishment of the Manchester Guardian. 11 What was the 1832 Great Reform Act? the Reform Act of 1832 increased the electorate from around 366,000 to 650,000, which was about 18 per cent of the total adult-male population in England and Wales. The vast majority of the working classes, as well as women, were still excluded from voting and the Act failed to introduce a secret ballot. 12. Who were the Tolpuddle Martyrs? The Tolpuddle Martyrs were workers were agricultural workers who were convicted in 1834 of swearing an illegal oath and sentence to transportation to Australia. The public protested with the Copenhagen Field Demonstration where 35,000 to 100,000 people attended and then sent a petition to Parliament. This resulted in the government pardoning the Tolpuddle Martyrs and led to the establishment of trade unions

12	The execution of Charles I He was to be tried by 135 judges who would decide if he was guilty or not. In fact only 68 turned up for the trial. Those that did not were less than happy about being associated with the trial of the king. In fact, there were plenty of MPs in Parliament who did not want to see the king put on trial but in December 1648, these MPs had been stopped from going into Parliament by a Colonel Pride who was helped by some soldiers. The only people allowed into Parliament were those who Cromwell thought supported the trial of the king. This Parliament was known as the "Rump Parliament" and of the 46 men allowed in (who were considered to be supporters of Cromwell), only 26 voted to try the king. Therefore even among those MPs considered loyal to Cromwell, there was no clear support to try Charles.
