

Celebrating Success at Home and School

This newsletter celebrates some of our pupils many fantastic achievements before, during and after lockdown. It is always a pleasure to share, with our families, the many amazing things our pupils have achieved. Sharing successes feels even more important this year as we have missed seeing and being with you all.

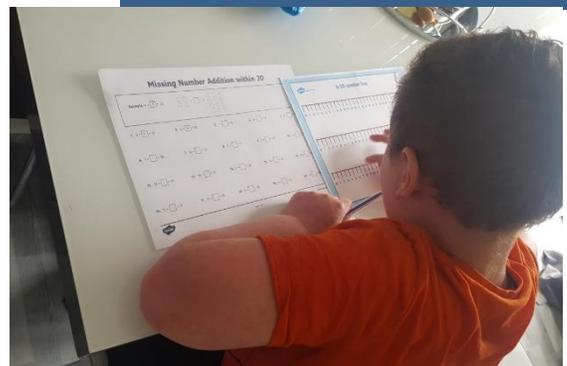

Congratulations to our nine Sixth Form leavers.

It has been a pleasure watching each leaver develop their skills as they transition into adulthood and college. We are proud of you all.

A very special congratulations goes to these leavers who despite a pandemic, successfully completed their Duke of Edinburgh Awards.

We are very proud of the skills you gained and the resilience you demonstrated.

Sharing home school learning with you all has been a pleasure. Here are some of our pupils developing their literacy and numeracy skills.

We have been delighted to see our pupils continuing to develop their physical skills during their time at home. Well done everyone.

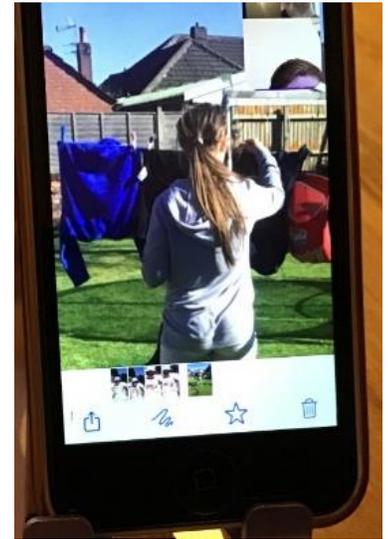

Making dens, exploring the world and helping nature flourish was all part of your home school learning. You have all worked so hard.

Throughout lockdown we enjoyed seeing the many ways our pupils were developing their creative skills.

How wonderful to see the ways you have: learnt new skills; cared for each other; met many challenges and shared these times with us. Thank you.

Happy Birthday to all our pupils who celebrated this special day at home.

We would like to wish this young lady good luck in her future school. We will miss you.
