It's always lovely to be able to share the successes of our children.

Daniel Lavender will be representing the North East at the Traditional Tang Soo Do Federation UK International Championships at the National Indoor Athletic Centre in Cardiff tomorrow - good luck, Daniel! We are also delighted that Harry Thornton has had his contract renewed with Middlesbrough Football Academy for another year. This is fabulous news! Mrs Channing 😊

What has Toby seen this week?

Toby was shocked to see a massive robot coming into school on Tuesday, but soon realised that it was actually Vienna's homework project! She brought in four robots that she had made at home during the holiday. Toby thought they were awesome!

Safer Sleep for Babies

There is useful information, advice and guidance available on the NYSCP website regarding safer sleep for babies. This includes new Safer Sleep guides for parents. Please visit NYSCP \(safeguardingchildren.co.uk\) and search for 'Safer Sleep For Babies' for more details.

Check out what your child is learning!

Did you know that the knowledge organiser for this half term's topic is on your child's class Teams account? Knowledge organisers show the important information that we think children should learn and remember. Why not use past knowledge organisers to see what they have remembered?!

Thank you!

Thank you to Mrs Maylard who took all of the Y3/4 painting aprons home to wash during the holidays. She also made the scrap paper in Mrs Charlton and Miss Harmar's classroom into little notepads for the children to use!

What is the Healthy Start Scheme?

How can families access the Scheme?

People in receipt of Job seekers Allowance or Income Support should phone 0300 330 7010 or email healthy.start@nhsbsa.nhs.uk to apply.

Don't be alarmed!
 On Sunday 23 April at 3pm, phones and tablets in the UK will unexpectedly make a loud sound like a siren. This will be a test of a new emergency alert system from the government. If it works, it may be used to warn people about floods or other life threatening situations in the future. The sound may be different, depending on the device, but the government says it may make a loud siren sound (even if the phone or tablet is on silent). It could also vibrate, or even read out a message automatically. The alert will last around ten seconds and you'll need to swipe the message to clear it or press 'okay'. People who have their phones switched off will not receive the message. The first time this alert happens it is just as a test so it's nothing to worry about, but in the future it could be letting you know about a real emergency. The government says it could be used if you're somewhere where it may flood. It could also be used for big fires, or extreme weather, like blizzards or big storms. It could also be used during terror incidents or emergencies if the UK was under attack. Only emergency services or the government will send warnings, so it's important to listen to them!
