WEATHER UPDATES

Dear Families,

Due to the significant snowfall forecast overnight, we kindly ask that you check our text messages and social media channels for updates regarding school opening. We understand that pupils and staff travel from across the region, and snowfall may vary. Our priority is ensuring the safety of both our school site and everyone traveling to it.

If the weather warning proves accurate, there is a strong likelihood that the school will be closed tomorrow. However, we cannot confirm this until later tonight or early tomorrow morning, as no one will be able to inspect the site until at least 7:00 a.m. (and this may change if travel conditions worsen).

As an interim measure, we have decided that school will not open to pupils until 11:00 a.m. tomorrow. This allows additional time for staff and pupils to travel safely if conditions permit. We appreciate that some transport teams may find this challenging, but this is the safest approach given the circumstances.

If we can confirm a full closure this evening, we will notify you by 7:00 p.m. If a decision cannot be made tonight, we will ensure you are informed by 8:00 a.m. tomorrow morning.

Thank you for your continued support and understanding. The safety of our pupils and staff will always remain our top priority.

Stay safe and warm

Kindest regards

The Senior Leadership Team
