

Job Applicant Privacy Notice

Data Controller: The Sea View Trust

Data Protection Officer: Forbes Solicitors

As part of any recruitment process, the Trust collects and processes personal data relating to job applicants. The Trust is committed to being transparent about how it collects and uses that data and to meeting its data protection obligations.

What information does the Trust collect?

The Trust collects a range of information about you. This may include:

- your name, address and contact details, including email address and telephone number, date of birth and gender;
- the terms and conditions of your employment;
- details of your qualifications, skills, experience, and employment history, including start and end dates, with previous employers and with the Trust;
- information about your remuneration, including entitlement to benefits such as pensions or insurance cover;
- details of your bank account and national insurance number;
- information about your marital status, next of kin, dependents, and emergency contacts;
- information about your nationality and entitlement to work in the UK;
- information about your criminal record;
- details of your schedule (days of work and working hours) and attendance at work and details of periods of leave taken by you, including holiday, sickness absence, family leave, sabbaticals, and the reasons for the leave;
- details of any disciplinary or grievance procedures in which you have been involved, including any warnings issued to you and related correspondence;
- assessments of your performance, including appraisals, performance reviews and ratings, performance improvement plans and related correspondence;

- information about medical or health conditions, including whether or not you have a disability for which the Trust needs to make reasonable adjustments;
- equal opportunities monitoring information including information about your ethnic origin, sexual orientation and religion or belief.

The Trust may collect this information in a variety of ways. For example, data might be contained in application forms, obtained from your passport or other identity documents, or collected through interviews or other forms of assessment.

The Trust may also collect personal data about you from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers, information from employment background check providers and information from criminal records checks. The Trust may seek information e.g., references from third parties before a job offer to you has been made.

Data will be stored in a range of various places, including on your application record, in HR management systems and on other IT systems including the Trust's email system.

Why does the Trust process personal data?

The Trust needs to process data to take steps at your request prior to entering into a contract with you. It may also need to process your data to enter into a contract with you. In some cases, the Trust needs to process data to ensure that it is complying with its legal obligations. For example, it is required to check a successful applicant's eligibility to work in the UK before employment starts.

The Trust has a legitimate interest in processing personal data during the recruitment process and for keeping records of the process. Processing data from job applicants allows the Trust to manage the recruitment process, assess and confirm a candidate's suitability for employment and decide to whom to offer a job. The Trust may also need to process data from job applicants to respond to and defend against legal claims.

The Trust may process special categories of data, such as information about ethnic origin, sexual orientation or religion or belief, to monitor recruitment statistics. It may also collect information about whether or not applicants are disabled to make reasonable adjustments for candidates who have a disability. The Trust processes such information to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

As you will be working with children if successfully appointed, the Trust is obliged to seek information about criminal convictions and offences. Where the Trust seeks this information, it does so because it is necessary for it to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

The Trust will not use your data for any purpose other than the recruitment exercise for which you have applied.

If your application is unsuccessful, the Trust will keep your personal data on file for six months from the application closing date in case there are future employment opportunities for which you may be suited. You are free to withdraw your consent for The Trust to keep your data for this purpose at any time and should do so in writing directly to The Sea View Trust.

Who has access to data?

Your information may be shared internally for the purposes of the recruitment exercise. This includes members of the recruitment team, interviewers involved in the recruitment process and managers in the area with a vacancy.

The Trust may collect personal data about you from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers, information from employment background check providers and information from criminal records checks. The Trust may seek information e.g., references from third parties before a job offer to you has been made.

Once offered a conditional job offer, The Trust will share your data with other third parties for the purpose of running necessary background checks, as well as with the Disclosure and Barring Service to obtain necessary criminal records checks. The Trust will not transfer your data outside the European Economic Area.

How does the Trust protect data?

The Trust takes the security of your data seriously. It has internal policies and controls in place to ensure that your data is not lost, accidentally destroyed, misused, or disclosed, and is not accessed except by our employees in the proper performance of their duties.

For how long does the Trust keep data?

If your application for employment is unsuccessful, the Trust will hold your data on file for 6 months after the end of the relevant recruitment process. At the end of that period, or once you withdraw your consent, your data is deleted or destroyed.

If your application for employment is successful, personal data gathered during the recruitment process will be transferred to your personnel file and retained during your employment, this will be in accordance with the records retention policy.

Your Rights

As a data subject, you have several rights. You can:

- access and obtain a copy of your data on request;
- require the Trust to change incorrect or incomplete data;
- require the Trust to delete or stop processing your data, for example where the data is no longer necessary for the purposes of processing;
- object to the processing of your data where the Trust is relying on its legitimate interests as the legal ground for processing.

If you would like to exercise any of these rights, please contact the Trust Chief Operating Officer (COO), at trustoffice@theseaviewtrust.org.uk

If you believe that the Trust has not complied with your data protection rights, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

What if you do not provide personal data?

You are under no statutory or contractual obligation to provide data to the Trust during the recruitment process. However, if you do not provide the information, the Trust may not be able to process your application properly, or at all.
