

CORE RE

Why study this course?

RE focuses on pupils valuing themselves and others. RE celebrates diversity in society by helping pupils understand similarities and differences. It promotes self-awareness, tolerance, respect, open-mindedness, appreciation and wonder. RE also helps pupils develop key skills such as communication, working with others and problem solving.

What will you study in this course?

In year 10, Core RE students study a range of moral, contemporary issues and religious attitudes to these issues. Topics studied include:

- Belief in God, examining philosophical arguments to support belief.
- Abortion, euthanasia, transplant surgery and Christian and Muslim attitudes to them.
- Changing attitudes to marriage and the family, Christian and Muslim attitudes to them

How the course is assessed?

Core RE is a non-examination subject. There are no final external examinations being worked towards. RE is delivered because of the statutory legal requirement. Student's classwork is informally assessed by the subject teacher.
