Revision Environment

Different places work best for different people

There is no one right place to revise

You need to pick somewhere based on how YOU work best

You will find some places feel more productive than others

Library

Lots of books and resources about the subjects you are revising Access to the internet for research Fewer distractions

May be busy and hard to get a desk

Can involve travel

Bedroom

You can set up your study space as you want

You can shut yourself away for privacy Easy access to healthy snacks and drinks You may get distracted by TV or games You may get distracted by others

A Friend's House

You can discuss revision problems with your friend You can test each other You could distract each other

You may become disheartened or stressed if your friend seems to know more than you

Top Tips for a good study space

Close the door to shut out any noise

Have all of the resources (books and stationary ready)

Use a well lit space

Tidy the space you are going to use

No distractions - switch off TV, switch off your phone
