

The New Kittens

Our cat Toots is going to have kittens,
If one has white paws I'll call him mittens.
In a month they will be here,
When they come we will all cheer.

When they arrive they'll be so small,
So Toots will have to take good care of them all.
We all hope they aren't as crazy as their dad,
But if they are as calm as Toots that wouldn't be so bad.

They will all play together and have lots of fun,
Then go to sleep when the day is done.
But when we are all asleep in bed,
All the kittens will be up making lots of noise instead!

They will all love attention and cuddles,
And they can go outside and splash in puddles.
We will take care of the kittens until they are four months old,
But then they will get a new owner and hopefully behave as good as gold.

All the kittens will lie on my knee,
Then curl up and watch T-V.
They'll all enjoy their time here,
But the end of the four months is getting near.

Eventually the kittens will have their last roam,
Then their new owners will take them to their new home.
We will all wave to the kittens and say "goodbye",
I hope this is how it goes but we'll just have to wait until the 24th of July.
