Transition Days

On Thursday and Friday of this week, all of the children in school will spend two days with their new teachers in their new classrooms. These days will allow the children and staff to get to know each other and remove any worries for September. Please drop off and collect the children as you normally would - staff will take them to the new classroom and introduce them to the new part of school. In the last week of term, children will be back with their current teachers, to finish off the year.

Great Art Work from our Nursery

The children in our nursery class have been busy producing sculptures of what they would like to be when they grow up. Fantastic art work and great aspirations - well done!

New Reading Area and Reading Award

As you will remember, earlier in the year, Drake Wright, who was one of our reception pupils, tragically and unexpectedly died. Drake loved reading and one of the ways in which we want to remember and celebrate Drake's life is with a new reading area on the main playground. Wes from Prestige Timber Products on the St. John's Business Park has very generously built a bench which has an inscription in Drake's name. Additionally, over the summer holiday, Mr Singleton will install further benches on the main playground so that children have somewhere to sit, read and chat with their friends.

We shall also start a reading award which will be presented to two children in early years, each year. This award will be for children who have made great progress with reading or for children who have demonstrated a love for reading. This award will be called the Drake Wright Award for Reading.
