

History skills, knowledge and vocabulary progression

Purpose of Study

The Southwold School's History curriculum identifies closely with the National curriculum in valuing the importance of pupils gaining a coherent knowledge and understanding of Britain's past and that of the wider world. Effective History teaching should inspire curiosity and enable pupils to ask perceptive questions, think critically, weigh evidence, sift arguments and develop perspective and judgement. History helps pupils to understand the complexity of people's lives, the process of change, the diversity of societies and relationships between different groups as well as their own identity.

Key areas of learning include chronological understanding, historical enquiry, knowledge and interpretation, rich vocabulary.

Through history our children will develop: -

- a knowledge and understanding of people, events, and contexts from a range of historical periods and of historical concepts & processes
- a curiosity to know more about the past
- the ability to question and evaluate information
- the ability to ask perceptive questions, think critically, weigh evidence, sift arguments, and develop perspective and judgement
- the ability to consistently support, evaluate and challenge their own and others' views using detailed, appropriate and accurate historical evidence derived from a range of sources
- the ability to formulate and refine questions and lines of enquiry
- a respect for historical evidence and the ability to make robust and critical use of it to support their explanations and judgments
- the ability to construct informed responses that involve thoughtful selection and organisation of relevant historical information topics
