Dear Parents and Carers,

We are currently getting ready for our next National Autistic Society Autism Accreditation assessment in a couple of weeks.

The accreditation recognises work by a school or other organisation that shows commitment to understanding autism and that they offer an excellent service to autistic children, young people and adults. The process really aligns with our school values and is of significant importance to us as we want to provide the best for all of our pupils in terms of autism support.

I know that we have recently sent out our own school parent surveys but these are different with questions linked to the areas that the assessors will be looking at when they come. We really appreciate you taking the time to complete them as your responses form part of the evidence that they consider when making their assessment.

The survey can be accessed here:

Many thanks for your assistance with this. We know that working together helps support all of our pupils.

Yours sincerely,
