Latest News

Two new schools in North East Lincolnshire will provide fantastic opportunities for ambitious, energetic, exceptional professionals to be the Lead Teachers for the NEW Resource Specialist Provisions (RSPs) at Scartho and Waltham Gateway Academies. The RSPs will be opening in September 2025 for children from across North East Lincolnshire aged 5 - 12 years who have an EHCP and identified Social, Emotional and Mental Health (SEMH) needs.

The RSP teachers will create a nurturing and empathic approach to teaching, prioritising child-centred relational approaches. Both academies will champion the principles of trauma awareness, relational learning, and building strong, trusting relationships with children to create a safe learning environment.

Autism Training

It has been a busy February in North East Lincolnshire with the local authority working in partnership to facilitate training and develop education provision to improve outcomes for children and young people with SEND. SCERTs@ training was expertly delivered by Emily Rubin who flew in from America to deliver training to SENCOs heads, and HLTAs from many settings in our area.

SCERTS stands for Social Communication Emotional Regulation Transaction Support and is a model that is a research-based educational approach and multidisciplinary framework that directly addresses the core challenges faced by autistic children and persons, and their families. SCERTS® focuses on building competence in Social Communication, Emotional Regulation and Transactional Support as the highest priorities that must be addressed in any program and is applicable for individuals with a wide range of abilities and ages across home, school and community settings. Colleagues left with some immediate takeaway strategies to implement into their own settings, and a new found understanding and knowledge of some of the communication challenges faced by some of our children.

Learning4Life-Gy

Learning4Life-Gy has recently been awarded the 'School of Sanctuary' status for their work with the community in and around the East Marsh. A proud moment. Learning4Life - Gy have also been designated a Fostering Friendly school.

This term, some of the older learners went to HETA to experience the work that goes on there, something they thoroughly enjoyed and gained a great deal from. The learners with SEND and the ESOL learners interacted really well in their teams to produce some fabulous results.

To support students with SEND, Learning4Life - Gy engage learners in a wide variety of activities and trips. Travel is important as part of their Independent Skills sessions and the students have planned and taken a trip to Barton on the train.

The school has its own allotment close by, which is tended by the learners, mainly during the spring and summer months; they plant, nurture and crop the produce, from which they then cook into some very tasty dishes. Throughout the year, the learners develop their cooking skills; planning, buying, preparing and cooking the ingredients to make, and eat, delicious meals.

YPAG

Our January YPAG meeting took place online with a range of exciting things to discuss. We were joined by Sheryl Crawshaw from Harbour Learning Trust to offer name suggestions for Healing Academy's new Resource Specialist Base. We were also invited by Sarah Smith to feedback on ideas for Heritage events locally.

In February YPAG were joined by guest speaker Jane Foster from Health who gave great advice regarding Annual Health Checks for young people with learning disabilities. We also explored the general concerns young people have about their health and how to get support.

Some very honest thoughts were shared by YPAG, including worrying if you will be listened to, or made to have tests you don't want & the best ways to support your own physical and mental health. All thoughts are shared with permission to our SENDAP board to help us put our young people with SEND at the heart of what we do.

Our next YPAG meeting is in person at the Fishing Heritage Centre.

Applications for Small Projects High Needs Capital Grant Funding

We are thrilled to announce that 23 applications have been received from education settings ranging from Early Years to post-16, for the Small Projects High Needs Capital Grant Fund.

Through this funding, education settings could receive up to £10,000 to upgrade and adapt their environments to better support students with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND).

With the application period now closed, a dedicated panel comprising representatives from NELC Education and Inclusion Services, finance, assets, and school representatives will assess each application using a structured scoring approach.

A common theme among the applications is the creation of sensory spaces. These spaces offer numerous benefits, including helping children and young people who feel overwhelmed or anxious, providing stimulating or regulating equipment and toys, and supporting children and young people with sensory processing challenges.

Projects will be completed by the end of 2025 so watch this space to stay up to date on the progress of this exciting opportunity. NELC SEND Local Offer | High Needs Capital Grant Funding -NEL Small Grant Fund - NELC SEND Local Offer

Calling all SENCOs

As part of Delivering Better Value in SEND, the Yorkshire and Humber regional SEND group have funded an inclusion review to help the LA understand what inclusion looks like in our mainstream schools.

In order to support this process, we are asking as many of our education settings to complete the survey below to share their views on the progress made so far.

The survey has just 20 questions.

This is an opportunity for all mainstream settings in our local area to feedback their views, concerns and suggestions.

SENCO SPOTLIGHT

This month we hear from Jack Coll at Humberston Cloverfields Academy

I have the great pleasure of being Special Educational Needs Coordinator and Assistant Principal at Humberston Cloverfields Academy. My favourite part of the job - remains the same as it was in my NQT year- working with the pupils. Children bring such character and diversity to the school and it is a pleasure and a privilege to work with them and their families, whether this be through conversations, going into lessons so they can showcase the fantastic work they do or even simply times when we can play games during break time.

I prefer the practical elements of my job, working with our amazing team and supporting teaching and learning for those children who find classroom life that little bit "trickier". Our Trust motto is "built on botheredness" and it is a pleasure to see this come alive in the classroom at Humberston Cloverfields Academy, especially for children with SEND. It fills me with pride seeing our most vulnerable learners make great progress in their education whether that be in our setting or an alternative that has been identified as meeting their specific needs

SEND Early Years

This month the EY team distributed the WellComm@ screening and intervention toolkits to our incredible childminding sector.

These resources will help childminders identify and support children with emerging social communication difficulties. By providing early intervention, the toolkits empower childminders to better understand and address children's needs ensuring the best possible start in their development. We are excited to see the positive impact this resource will have!

EY Autism training

The Early Years Team attended an inspiring conference on the SCERTS@ model, led by Emily Rubin. This has enhanced our ability to support providers in promoting communication development for children under five diagnosed with autism. We are now better equipped to offer guidance on implementing strategies that foster social communication, emotional regulation and transactional support, ensuring more effective outcomes for these young children.

Our Family School Anxiety

It's normal for children and young people to feel worried about something that's happening at school - for example, when starting a new school or during exams. Sometimes, however, school can become challenging, stressful or distressing over a much longer period of time.

If your child is feeling anxious about school, or not able to go, it can be exhausting for both of you. Mornings in particular can become really stressful for the whole family, as you try to juggle your child's feelings alongside the need to get them to school and get on with your other responsibilities such as work. Even if you manage to get your child to the school gate, you might know how difficult they're going to find the day - or know that you'll be facing the same problem tomorrow morning.

If you're in this situation, YoungMinds have got advice to help you explore what's going on with your child, make changes at school that can help, and find the support you need if your child can't go to school.

Take a look at their really helpful website for tips and advice www.youngminds.org.uk.

NATIONAL SUPPORTED INTERNSHIP DAY

On 27th March we will be celebrating National Supported Internship Day. The theme for this year is empowerment and lots of activities nationwide have been organised. The aim of the day is to raise awareness of supported internships and the challenges faced. This year, the focus is on placing young adults at the forefront and sharing their stories. We will be sharing the stories of some of our own interns. As part of the day, Project Search are asking for as many monuments to be lit up orange as possible. We're excited to say that on the evening of 27th March, Grimsby Minster will be lit up orange! There will also be a series of online webinars on the day for young people and parents and carers. More information about these will be posted on the local offer. ## Parent Carer Forum

What a busy month January was for us at NELPCF! We are currently out and about meeting parent carers in family hubs and local schools. Parental engagement is so important to us. It's vital that we as a PCF get the voices of parent carers and we take them to the relevant services to let them know change needs to happen, let them know what is and isn't working and how things can be improved. We hold a lot of coffee morning drop-ins and we also offer free events for families of children with SEND. Follow us on Facebook for more information.

Find out more about the forum and where you can find them by visiting their Facebook Page <https://www.facebook.com/NELPCF>
