Dear Parents and Carers,

New communication platform- Class Dojo

Some of you may have heard your child talking about Class Dojo. Classes have used part of the system in the past, but we are rolling out the full system school-wide from next half term.

What is Class Dojo?

Class Dojo is a communication and behaviour platform that connects parents and school to celebrate successes and strengthen the supportive network around your child. It allows the school to communicate with parents and teachers to reward positive behaviours and good work through the use of Dojo Points (or dojos) while sharing photos about the work that is going on in your child's class.

Communication in Your First Language

Class Dojo allows parents to translate messages into their first language automatically. Dojo doesn't replace the usual methods of reporting pupil absence - you'll still need to contact the office directly

Whole school Communication and Notifications

Moving forward, the school will make announcements for the whole school via the Dojo app. This will replace notices, messages, and reminders currently sent via email.

Please note: Staff will not respond to comments via the App. If you wish to get in contact with the school or your child's class teacher, you must still do so via: enquiry@stjonmon.bham.sch.uk.

Class Story

Once connected, your child's teacher can broadcast information to all the parents using the Class Story. This might be a PE reminder or a class visit update.

You will be requested to click on your child's class teacher for the request to connect.

Class Dojo will replace the Seesaw Learning Platform, which will be deactivated at the end of the term.

We ask you to bear with us at the start. As with all new platforms, there may be 'teething problems'. However, we hope that this will be a more streamlined and efficient method of communication in the long run.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs. M.Elliott
