Queen Elizabeth II's jubilee celebrations

Silver Jubilee

Elizabeth II celebrated 25 years as queen in 1977. Parties were planned all across England and important people were invited to them.

Elizabeth travelled to the countries in the Commonwealth during this year, to celebrate with them. These countries held big parades to celebrate her visit.

Many British people held street parties with tea, sandwiches and yummy cakes and biscuits.

Golden Jubilee

Elizabeth II celebrated 50 years as queen in 2002. A formal dinner was organised at Buckingham Palace with the Prime Minister of England.

People came to Buckingham Palace to see the queen. They wore British flag hats and waved the British flag.

There was a big music concert inside the palace and a huge T.V. screen outside for others to watch. The Red Arrows and the Concorde (planes) flew over the palace with blue, white and red powder.

Diamond Jubilee

Elizabeth II celebrated 60 years as queen in 2012. On the river Thames, 1,000 boats lined up and the Queen travelled between them in the Royal Barge (boat).

There was a service at St. Paul's Cathedral in the morning and then the Queen paraded through the streets of England. There was a big parade at Windsor Castle (one of the Queen's weekend homes).

The Queen appeared on the Royal Balcony to see the people and many important people came to visit her.
