

Design and Technology Ambassadors

"Design can help to improve our lives in the present. Design thinking can help us chart a path into the future."

— Tim Brown

Who Are They?

DT Ambassadors play an essential role in promoting a love of learning for Design and Technology at St. Aloysius Catholic School. We have one Design and Technology Ambassador in each class and all love design.

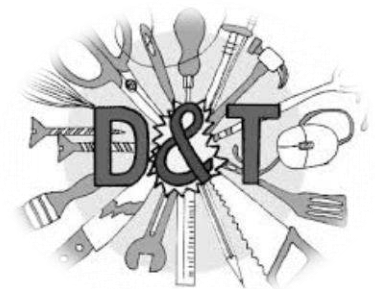

What They Do?

They take part in and devise a wide range of activities which are shared during the pupil voice meetings. All of the pupils attend regular meetings which consist of discussions based on how we can continue to foster our love for Design and Technology.

How They Make A Difference?

- They share a love of creating art and appreciating art with their class.
- They share a love of designing, making and evaluating with their class.
- They link with the Design and Technology subject leader
- They think and develop creative ways to promote art and design and technology across the school.
- They look for ways for pupils to have the opportunity to develop art and design and technology
