

The world's greatest space cadet- James Carter

Pre-visit

Before the visit from James Carter we got to look at a video of James reading one of his books about space. We spoke about the language James used to describe the planets and the features of the story.

We also read some of the poems from James Carter's poetry book. Our favourite was a poem about a spider! We then wrote our own poems and changed their shape so they looked like a spider.

During the visit

During our visit James introduced himself and spoke about all the books he had written. He was able to talk through the process of how he developed and wrote his poems. We were read a poem and we had to guess the animal he was talking about. Finally, we wrote our own poem all about an animal of our choice. It was great to be able to share our poems with James and the class where everyone had to guess the type of animal being described. We finished with a question and answer session with James where he answered all our questions.
