1	anonymous	The staff are very approachable and supportive. They make learning interesting for the children. My children look forward to coming into school each day and always have something interesting to share with us at the end of the day. The school has also worked well to support me with the medical needs of my child. Thank you

21	anonymous	Sometimes we have to allow children to be children I feel they are made to be like robots in the classroom. The teacher comes across very stern not welcoming at all. Having worked in a school and being a teacher myself I believe it is key to come across approachable and friendly with parents. The whole class seems to get punished a bit too much.
22	anonymous	The school is supposed to be outstanding because of excellent headteacher and all staff of school.

24	anonymous	My daughter has really settled into this school and she has blossomed more than her previous schools.

3	anonymous	For a religious festival I don't believe it's fair that the Muslim children only get one day off. It's a long day for them and gets late and also it gets tiring. Also I personally think too much homework is given. It takes us quite long to finish the homework given. I understand the importance of homework and I do believe homework should be given and I also appreciate they have a week to do it but I personally think it's too much homework. Muslim children have mosque to attend too so homework during the week for my child is too much hence we have to get it done over the weekend which takes up a lot of our time.

6	anonymous	Maybe notice other children's efforts too and allow others to become dojo champions instead of the same children every other week.
7	anonymous	Offer milk and fruit for snack time which parents can pre-order and pay for. Self defence after school club
8	anonymous	Can the school remind and strongly encourage parents not park directly outside the school gates at home time. It is a major hazard and creates numerous blind spots, putting child safety at great risk. It's the same parents who park there daily, putting others at great risk. Some visibility outside the gates should resolve this. Thanks and keep up the good work.
9	anonymous	Consequences for bullying? More homework? For a 9 year old I do not think that 2 sheets of homework (that can be completed in ten minutes) is a sufficient amount of homework My child came home from school today and said she had chicken nuggets at school for lunch but there was no veg option supplied with this choice? Why can't there be a vegetable supplied with each lunch choice? How can we promote healthy eating if they aren't provided with any vegetables at school?

11	anonymous	To provide halal meat for lunch times so that all children enjoy a healthy balanced meal option at ask school

23	anonymous	Dojo points need to be given out more generously so it motivates the child to want more points.
24	anonymous	Maybe we need an extra support worker for some special needs pupils.
25	anonymous	School should have a science club, so students interested in science can learn more.
26	anonymous	I'm not really confident about e.g. year ones mixed in with year twos, year threes mixed in with year fours, etc.
27	anonymous	Could the outside area be improved in the junior yard for kids to play
