A close-up photograph of an octopus's tentacles against a dark background. The tentacles are thick and textured, with visible suckers along their length. The coloration is a mix of deep purple, blue, and hints of orange and yellow, typical of an octopus's skin. The lighting highlights the tentacles' curves and the intricate patterns on their surface.

If I were an octopus I'd thank you Lord for my fine looks

And He's known me
And He's loved me
