Why do we have Remembrance Day?

Every year, in November, we celebrate Remembrance Day. On this day we remember all of the people that have fought and died in all of the terrible wars.

Over 100 years ago in 1914 was the start of the First World War when many countries fought with each other.

What is Remembrance Day?

4 years later on 11th November 1918, all of the countries finally agreed to stop fighting and the world became peaceful once again.

As a result, every year on 11th November we wear poppies to show that we remember all of the people that lost their lives during wars.

Remembrance 2020

Remembrance Sunday is on 8th November. This year we celebrate 75 years since the end of war II in Europe in 1945 and we will remember:

- The British and Commonwealth forces who fought in the war and the freedom their service and sacrifice gave us
- All the people who did not come home
- All the people who rebuilt the country after the war
- The people who help us today

Then and Now – Service in WWII and Today

What does service and sacrifice mean to you?

Introducing service and sacrifice

In 2020 think of all the men and women in the Second World War and those today, who have served and sacrificed to help us and our country

Service

Sacrifice

Exploring service:

Who are the helpers now?

Exploring service: what did they give Then?

Can you think what sacrifices helpers made during the Second World War?

Exploring service: what are they giving Now?

Can you think what sacrifices helpers have made during the coronavirus pandemic?

How do we say thank you and remember?

We use symbols to demonstrate our thanks and Remembrance

How do we remember?

Many people wear poppies to remember the people who died.

Wreaths are laid beside war memorials by people. The Queen even lays a wreath in London to show that she is remembering the people who have died.

Lots of places hold a 2 minute silence at 11:00am to think about people who died.

Why do we wear a poppy?

In World War 1, a lot of the fighting was done in countries called France and Belgium. Lots of things were destroyed; buildings, roads and trees all vanished.

The men were fighting in large fields, but as they fought, all the ground turned to mud, where no grass or plants grew.

Only 1 thing grew – poppies! When all the fighting had stopped these flowers grew all over the land that had been destroyed and made people happier.

The poppies grew every year, and reminded people about the war.

Then and Now

- Then – people fought in the war and died for their country, looked after loved ones, helped at home and at work
- Now – people fought on the frontlines and died to protect us, looked after loved ones, helped at home and at work

Then and Now people have shown courage, bravery and determination.

We remember ALL their service and sacrifice

Why do we have Remembrance?

- To remember
- To show respect
- To say thank you
- To preserve peace and freedom
