

We are working as a historian
by observing:
Sources and Evidence

letters

diaries

autobiographies

songs

tools

speeches

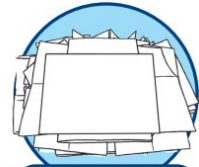

paintings

clothing

weapons

research or
census data

textbooks

commentaries

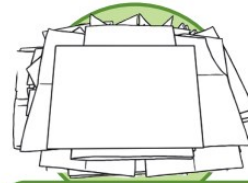

documentaries

essays

research websites

newspaper articles

Historians use sources as clues to the past so we can better understand how life was like, or why events happened.

We are working as a historian
by observing:
Sources and Evidence

letters

diaries

autobiographies

songs

tools

speeches

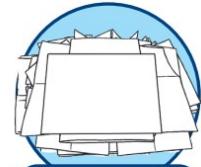

paintings

clothing

weapons

research or
census data

textbooks

commentaries

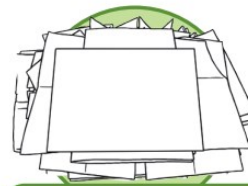

documentaries

essays

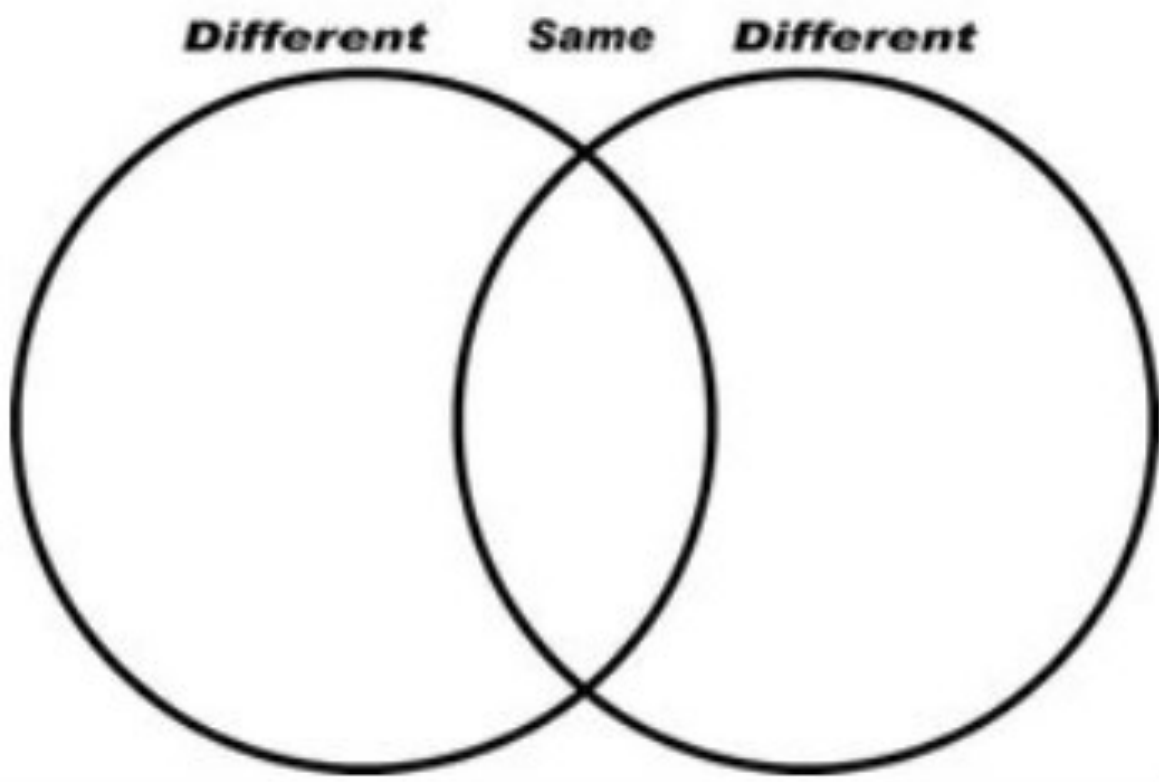

research websites

newspaper articles

Historians use sources as clues to the past so we can better understand how life was like, or why events happened. They can use primary sources (from the time) or secondary sources (after the time period). Historians must assess the reliability of sources before trusting them.

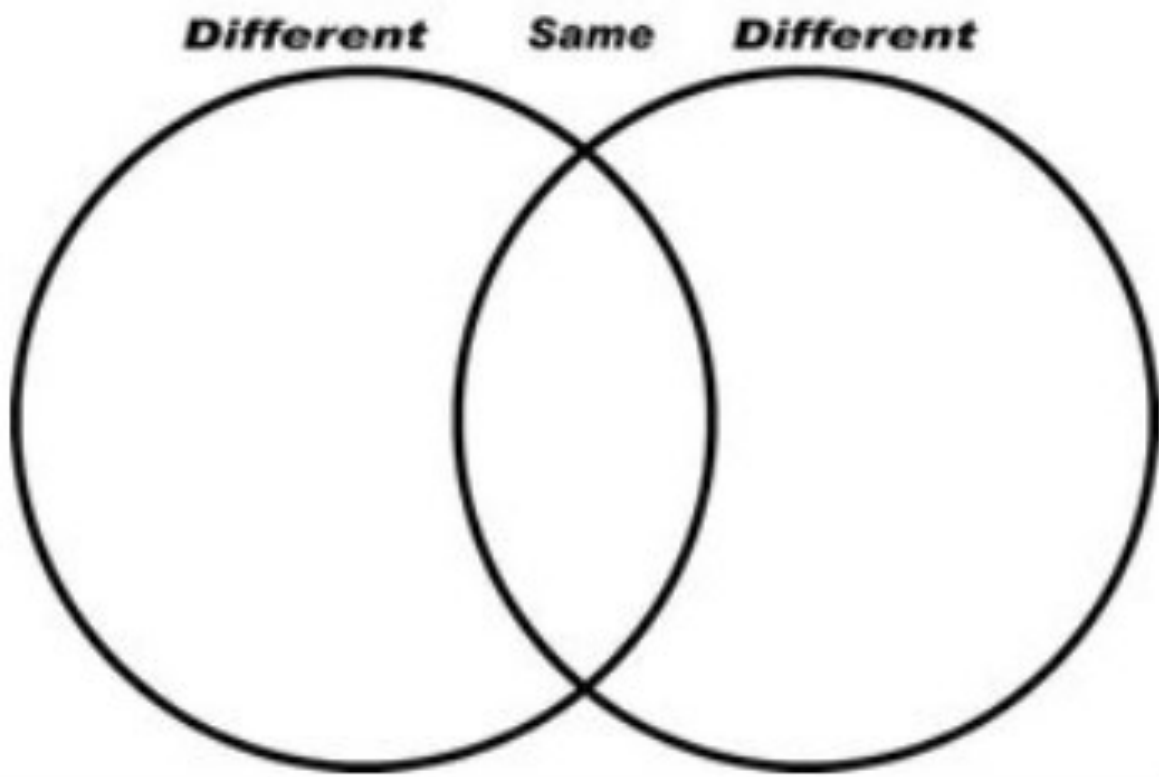

We are working as a historian
by observing:
Similarity and Difference

Historians observe similarity and difference over time to better understand changes that happened.

We are working as a historian
by observing:

Similarity and Difference

Historians observe similarity and difference over time to better understand changes that happened, and their lasting impact. They can also observe similarity and difference between different time periods.

We are working as a historian
by observing:
Continuity and Change

Historians observe if events or people created change in history, or if things stayed the same.

We are working as a historian
by observing:
Continuity and Change

Historians observe if events or people created change in history, or if things stayed the same. Historians assess how much of change events, or people made and if this change was long-lasting and effective.

We are working as a historian
by observing:
Cause and Consequence

Historians find out the reasons why events happened and what happened as a result.

We are working as a historian
by observing:
Cause and Consequence

Historians analyse sources and evidence to decide reasons why events occurred, and to understand the consequences after, and its impact on people.

We are working as a historian
by observing:
Significance and Impact

Historians assess people, events and civilisations using sources and knowledge to decide if what their impact on history was. They also summarise and evaluate if their impact was significant and important.