

History : Year 3 Theme: On the Move

Transport- A significant turning point in British History- the first railways

What should I already know...

About the lives of some significant people who have contributed to national and international events

How to sequence events and objects

Recognise similarities and differences between our lives now and life in the past.

About significant historical events, people and place in their own locality

Historical skills, knowledge and understanding

To note connections, contrasts and trends over time

To ask and answer questions about how and why transport has changed over time

To identify reasons why life changed as transport changed.

To compare life today with life before the advent of the railways

To understand how the railways were a significant turning point in history and changed life

Vocabulary

Transport

Railways

Engineer

Colliery

Chronological

George Stephenson

What I will know /be able to do by the end of the unit

Know about George Stephenson and the rocket

Put some main events from George Stephenson's life in chronological order

Place different modes of transport in chronological order

Understand how begin to give reasons for how and why transport has changed life

Understand why people need transport and how technological advances provided new opportunities to move

How increased transport changed lifestyle

Ask and answer questions

