Kingfishers Class Teacher Update

Dear Parents & Carers

As I'm sure you have noticed, Mrs Magdic is expecting a baby very soon. She had planned to start her maternity leave at a slightly later date, but to ensure that both Mrs Magdic and baby are happy and healthy, she is going to be starting her maternity leave from this week.

Whilst Mrs Magdic is on maternity leave, we are delighted to welcome back Mrs K Jones who will be teaching in Kingfishers class, alongside Mrs Aris. Mrs Jones is a very experienced teacher who previously spent over ten years working at St Elphege's and Regina Coeli, before moving on to become a head teacher at a local Sutton school. We are delighted that she has decided that she would like to come back to work with us. Some parents who have older children may remember Mrs Jones and others may have met her already when collecting this term, as she has already covered in Kingfishers this year. Mrs Jones enjoys getting to know people, so please do make sure you say hello.

I know you will join us in wishing Mrs Magdic and her husband all the very best at this happy and exciting time. I'm sure that once her new baby arrives, she will come back to visit the children.

As always, thank you for your continued support.

Yours sincerely,

Mr M Jones
