

English Lesson

Year 3

Write your date and title in your exercise book.

Friday 5th February

Can I write an ending paragraph for a Stone
Age story?

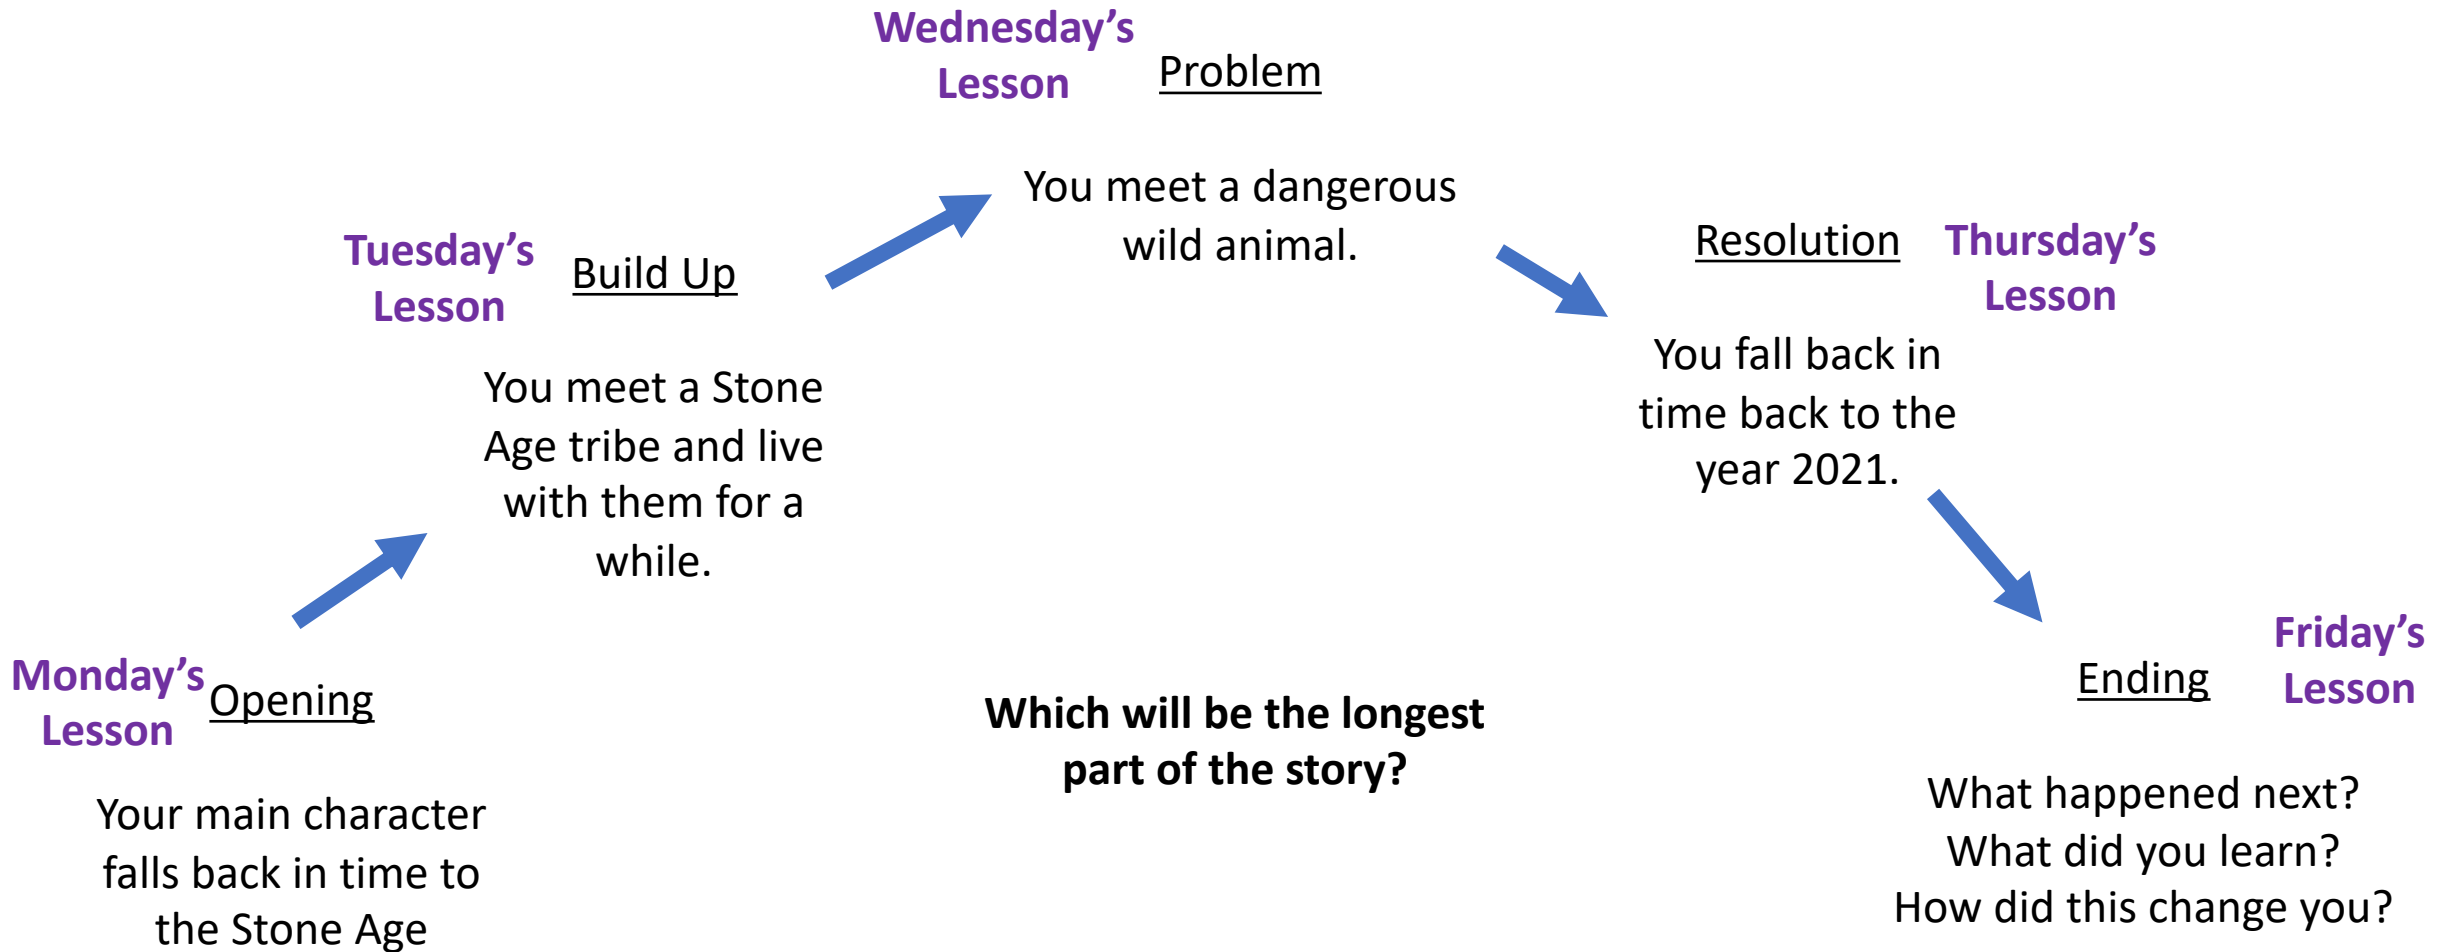

Today, we will be writing the ending paragraph of our own story set in the Stone Age.

To help us, we will borrow the structure of the Stone Age Boy story.

Stone Age Boy

We will be using this plot outline to help us write our stories this week.

Warm Up: We are going to look for ideas that we can borrow for our own stories from the the story called, Stone Age Boy.

Instead I found I was back home.

When I told my family what had happened, they didn't believe me.

They said I'd only been gone a few hours
and I must have fallen asleep and dreamt it.

Years passed, but I never forgot my friend Om.

I am an archaeologist now (that's me in the glasses).

Everywhere I go, I look in the past for signs of Om.

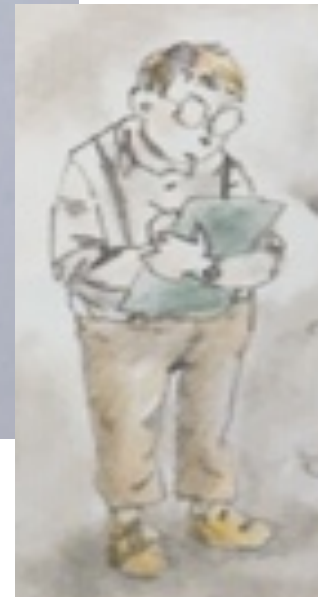

And I never stop learning from her and her people.

Was it a dream? Maybe ...

Look at the what happened to the main character in the end.

Can you see a time conjunction?

How did the main character change
because of their experiences?

Task: Today, you are going to write your ending paragraph to your story.

In this paragraph...

- What happened to your main character in the end?
- How does your main character feel?
- What did your main character learn?
- How did your main character change because of their experiences?

Try to use:

- Adverbs
- Adjectives
- Prepositions
- Conjunctions
- Speech Punctuation

Teacher Example Paragraph - on the next page.

Teacher Example Story Ending Paragraph

“How long have I been gone?” she thought to herself. “Mum! I’m okay, she called out as she ran up the gravelly garden path.

“Did you finish off that drawing love?” She turned towards Annie then raised her eyebrows. “My goodness, what have you done to your lovely dress?”

“I went back in time to the Stone Age,” Annie cried, “I’m so glad to be back,” then she ran and hugged her Mum very tightly.

She told her Mum all about her adventure, but she didn’t believe her. She wrote about it as a story at school. The story was so good, she won a writing competition. However, when she told people it really happened, no one believed her. So, she stopped telling anyone in the end. She decided that it would be her own special memory that she would treasure and dream about. Which she did, for many years to come. She had also stopped being so bothered about being neat and tidy!

How did you do?

I can't wait to look at your work.

Don't forget to put your finished work on Class
Dojo!