English- SPAG WORK

1. Circle the parenthesis which would change the meaning of the paragraph below if swapped with the underlined parenthesis.

The elephants, disturbed by the loud noise, started to stampede straight towards where the young lion cubs were sitting. Their eyes darted all around as they searched for their mother. Where was she? They were frozen to the spot. The ground pounded and shook as the stampede came nearer and nearer. The cubs huddled together waiting for their mother to appear.

| A. frightened by the gun shot | B. troubled by the approaching people | C. desperate to reach the water |

2. Write each underlined parenthesis next to the clarity it provides.

Pandas (commonly recognised as big black and white bears) are actually born pink roughly the size of a pencil. They then grow quickly due to the huge amounts of bamboo they eat each day — about twelve kilograms in twelve hours! They are known to live in China, high in the mountains, where they find plenty of bamboo to consume.

A. It clarifies how much food they eat. _____

B. It clarifies where they live. _____

C. It clarifies what they look like. _____

3. Lewis is looking at the paragraph below. He says,

The underlined parenthesis in the paragraph clarifies where he had travelled to.

He followed the footprints. Where would they lead? He followed them until he came to a small hole at the back of the cave. John squeezed himself through the gap and found himself in a whole other land — the land of the dinosaurs! How was this possible? He glanced up and saw winged dinosaurs flying overhead. This was incredible!

Is he correct? Explain your answer.
