Who's In?

It is someone's birthday in your class. Everyone has been invited to the party and the birthday girl is making everyone dress as characters from their favourite TV show. She says all girls must wear skirts and have their hair in a ponytail. You feel uncomfortable with this as you don't like wearing skirts and have had your hair cut short.

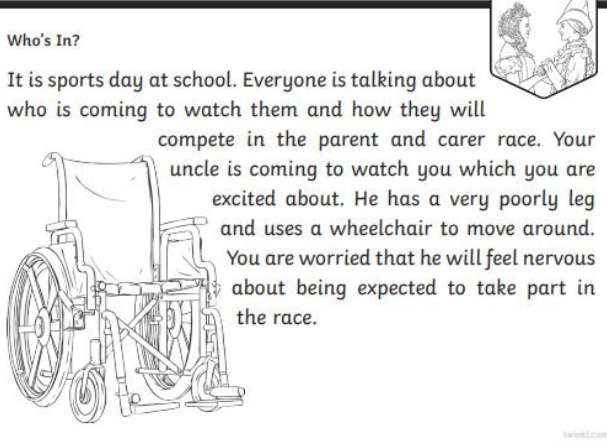

Who's In?

Your class is learning about growing up. Everyone has to bring in an item which tells the class something about when they were little. You have nothing to bring because you have only just moved to this country from your home country, where you had to leave in a hurry as there was a war.

Who's In?

It is sports day at school. Everyone is talking about who is coming to watch them and how they will compete in the parent and carer race. Your uncle is coming to watch you which you are excited about. He has a very poorly leg and uses a wheelchair to move around. You are worried that he will feel nervous about being expected to take part in the race.
