

DIMENSIONS CURRICULUM

The Learning Means the World curriculum is a new global curriculum that us forward thinking and highly relevant, dealing with tomorrow’s issues today. The well planned and resourced cross-curricular theme units are built around four world issues: conflict, communication, conservation and culture. It is designed to help pupils acquire the knowledge, skills and values needed to thrive and succeed in the 21st century. It provides a high level of challenge and engagement. Through child led learning activities, the Learning Means the World curriculum aims to build independent and resilient learners.
