

African Art

Tinga Tinga

Tinga Tinga Art

- Tinga Tinga art is an art movement that began in Tanzania and spread to most of east Africa.
- The paintings are bright and colourful and usually show the elephant, rhino, buffalo, lion or leopard.
- They are designed to appeal to European and American tourists.

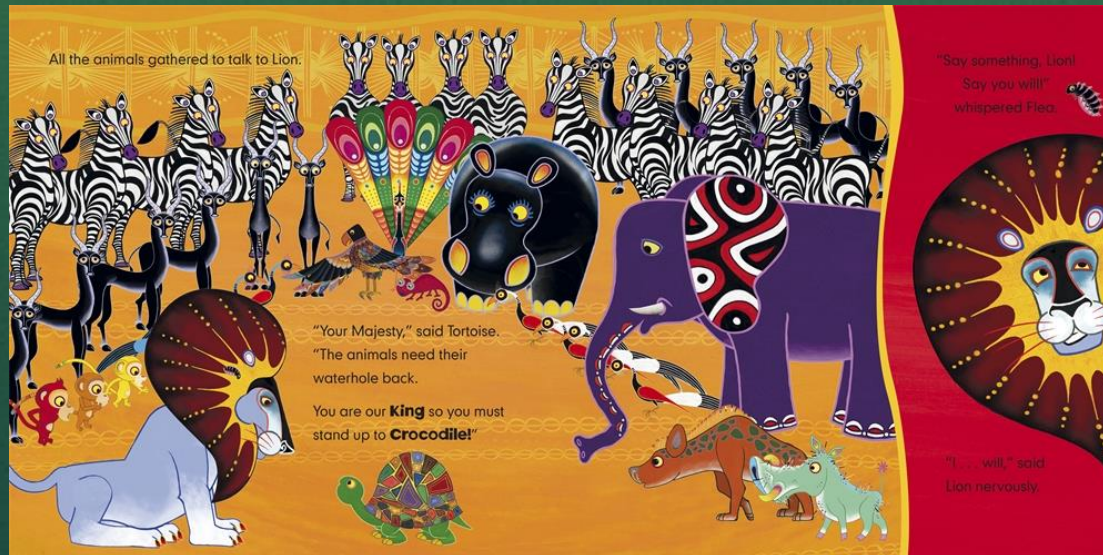

- Edward Tingatinga began the art movement in 1968 but died 4 years later. His style of work is now copied across Eastern Africa.
- He became one of the most famous artists in Africa.

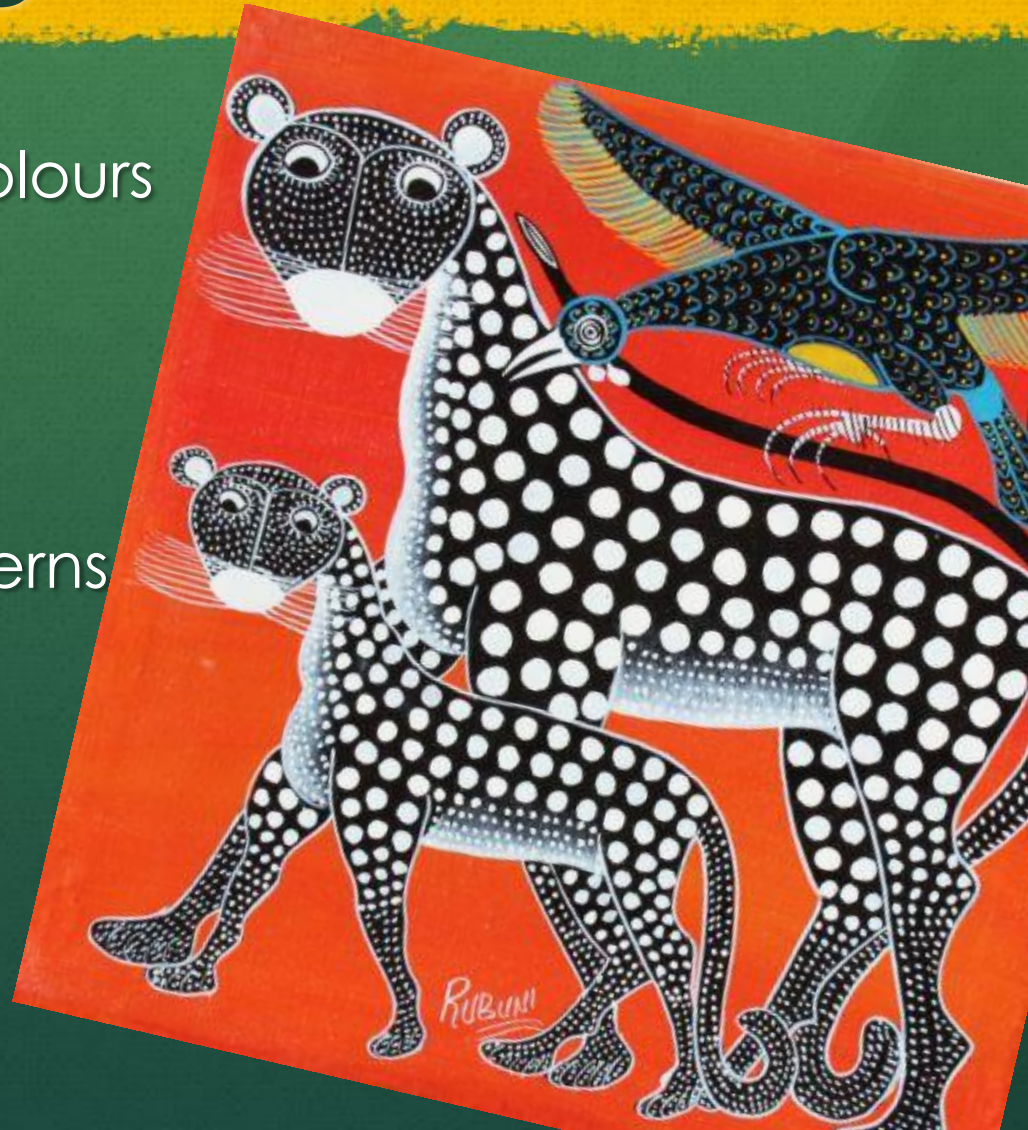

Tinga Tinga Tales

- A whole series of children's TV programs was based upon the paintings by Edward Tingatinga.
- They told stories of different African animals and used the bright colours and bold patterns that Edward Tingatinga had used in his original artwork.

Making our own Tinga Tinga art

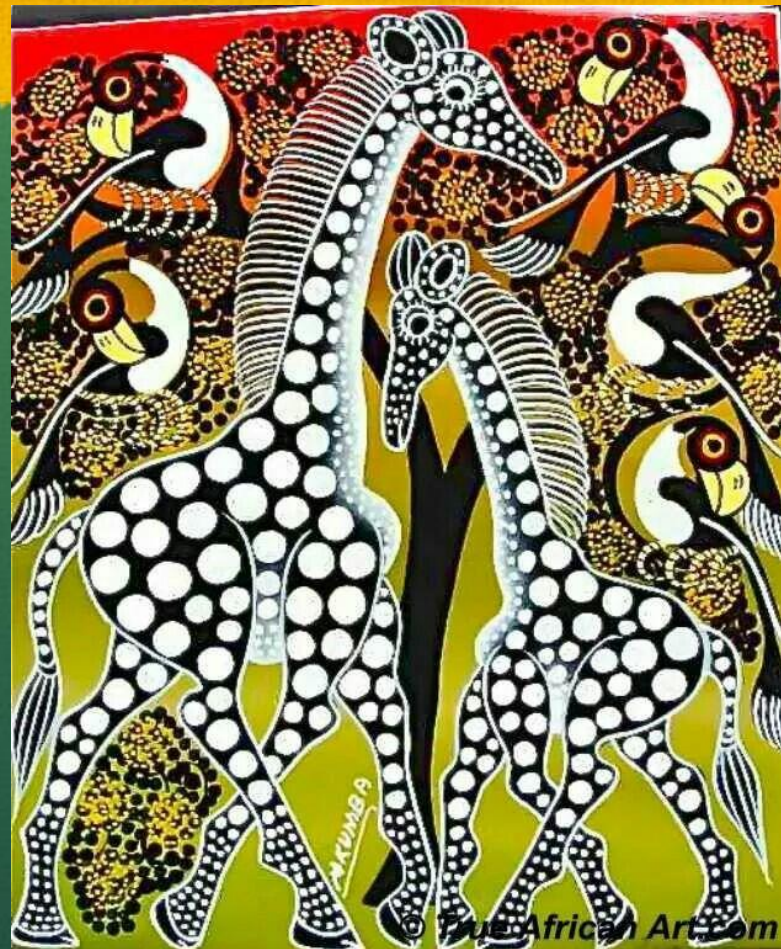

- Lots of bold bright colours
- Simple shapes
- African animals
- Lots of different patterns
- Patterned borders

Look at the pictures and talk about the shapes, patterns and colours you can see

© The African Art.com

Now create your own

LO: Use a variety of pattern techniques

Choose opposite on the colour wheel and black to make your patterns bold

Think about the different patterns you could use

