Learner of the Week

Focus - Being empathetic
Africa Eva – for helping her friends when they found something tricky. Victor – for making a new friend and being kind to them during play.
Antarctica Jack J – You are very kind and considerate, and you understand the importance of making sure your friends are feeling alright. You are respectful and thoughtful. Jake – You know how to cheer people up if they are feeling sad and you also know that sometimes others just need a little time on their own to relax.
Australia George – You are a wonderfully thoughtful member of the class and spread your kindness with everyone around you. You are considerate of your friends' feelings and are always there to offer your support with a smile. Freya – You always show empathy and kindness towards everyone around you. You are a very considerate member of our class and your positive attitude never goes unnoticed.
Europe Phoebe – For always feeling true compassion towards both your peers and your adults. You understand how everybody is feeling, when they are feeling it all the time and have such a special sense of maturity about you. Thank you so much for caring so deeply, Phoebe! Sam – I feel like with each passing day, you are changing right in front of our eyes! You are developing so much empathy towards your peers who you may feel need a supportive hand in making their voice heard and this is something so special about you Sam.
Asia Waliyah – For always showing empathy to your friends. You always with about others and show great ways of helping your friends feel happy. Penelope Penelope – For helping a friend so beautifully this week with their learning when they found something tricky. You were patient and kin and made them feel at ease.

Word of the Week

South America

Zara- During our trip to Oughtonhead, you showed empathy by listening carefully to your adult, walking safely with the group and showing respect for our local area. Well done, Zara!

Sia- You always think of others, try to understand their point of view and care about your friends and the environment. Thank you for spreading kindness wherever you go. Well done, Sia!

North America

Wilf H - This week's Learner of the Week has shown incredible empathy. They are always aware of how others around them are feeling and know just when to offer a helping hand to support their friends in the classroom.

Oliver Stan - This week's Learner of the Week has shown wonderful empathy. They always look after our classroom environment, think about how their actions affect others, and know the perfect balance between working hard and having fun!
