SIR DAVID CARTER

Sir David Carter was the National Schools Commissioner from 1st February 2016 to 31st August 2018. Before his appointment he was the first Regional Schools Commissioner for the South West.

David is a music graduate of the University of London and has taught music in comprehensive schools across the country since he started teaching in September 1983. In 1997, he became headteacher of Cirencester Deer Park School in Gloucestershire.

His previous roles include: Principal of John Cabot City Technology College in Bristol in 2004 CEO of the Cabot Learning Federation from 2007 to 2014, where he led the growth of the federation to include 12 schools and successfully applied to become one of the first teaching schools in the country in 2011 being one of the first national leaders of education. He received a knighthood for services to education in the Queen's birthday honours in 2013.

AMELIA JENKINSON

Amelia Jenkinson is the CEO and co-founder of the School of Sexuality Education (www.schoolofsexed.org), an award-winning charity which provides comprehensive and inclusive relationships and sex education programmes. We provide age-appropriate, evidence-based workshops for students and training for teachers. Our spiral curriculum covers all topics, including sexting, consent and porn. To date, School of Sex Ed has worked with over 40,000 young people across the UK, from the Isle of Wight to Edinburgh.

This presentation we will explore how Senior Leaders can take a whole-school approach to addressing sexual harassment and sexual violence. We will illustrate how policies and procedures which contribute to rape culture can be addressed; outline the training that all staff should undergo; provide key recommendations for RSE, PSHE and the wider curriculum; and recap key best-practice approaches in dealing with incidents.
