Core Safeguarding Principles

	Create You all deserve to be physically and emotionally safe, so every adult working in school tries hard to create a safe environment and culture for you to learn in.
	Relate Adults working in school value you and look for the positives in you. Having mutually respectful relationships with staff in school is important because it helps keep you safe.
	Prevent Preventing any harm that might come to you is our priority. We teach you about all kinds of risks to your physical and mental wellbeing so that we can avoid them.
	Respond If something happens that affects your safety or wellbeing, all staff are trained to listen to your concerns. Specialist staff know how to get you the extra support you might need.
	Empower We empower you to talk about all kinds of equality. We ensure students who say or do prejudiced things learn from their mistake. We want you to 'call out' inappropriate things.
	Communicate Your teachers communicate with each other, your families and other adults who might work with you. This supports your development and wellbeing.

... and EVERY adult in school ...
