

The Kingsway School Broadway Key Messages

Welcome Address

When I stood up in front of you at the start of the year, I spoke to you about both the kind of world I would like to live and about the kind of school we want to have. It has been amazing to see how many of you are able to conduct yourselves in such an exemplary way. Key cornerstones of our school's culture is that we value compassion, celebrate diversity, keep each other safe and we always strive to hold ourselves to the highest of standards.

This week is anti-bullying week in the UK and the messages that will be shared with you in your main assembly and in your additional assembly could not be more in line with the culture we are trying to achieve. Our school subscribes to the 'Anti-bullying Foundation definition of bullying, which is: 'The repetitive, intentional hurting of one person or group by another person or group, where the relationship involves an imbalance of power. Bullying can be physical, verbal or psychological. It can happen face to face or online'.

This week, you will learn about new measures our school is taking to support students to report bullying if they see it. And remember... if in doubt always BE KIND!

Have a Great Week. Mr Sadler

- More than 5000 positive points were awarded for 'good work and learning' this week, which was the most commonly awarded positive by a long way.
- 98% of pupils were on time to school every day last week. Keep up the good work.

Key Messages: Achievement

A key part of learning is encountering more and remembering more knowledge. In our heads, knowledge fits together in a kind of jigsaw puzzle. Like with all jigsaws, it is harder to put together and make sense of if there are pieces missing.

Your teachers will work hard to check in lessons that you have the knowledge you need to achieve well. You can learn best when you engage in this: answer questions to the best of your ability, demonstrate what you know when given a chance and tell your teacher if you feel you don't have all the knowledge you need to be successful. Knowledge is power.

Key Messages: Respect Anti bullying week

On Wednesday, Years 7, 8 and 9 will attend a special assembly in recognition of anti-bullying week. This will be delivered by a charity called 'Stand Against Violence'. Go to lessons as usual, but your teachers will then bring you to the hall (Y7 p1, Y9 p2, Y8 p3).

The assembly will cover the upsetting topic of bullying and will include a story about someone who took their own life. If you think this will be too upsetting for you personally, let your form tutor know today so that alternative arrangements can be made.

Whisper

This anonymous reporting tool will 'go live' this week in recognition of anti-bullying week.

- Look out for posters with a number you can text and an email address you can use.
- Report your concerns about bullying.
- Report things you may see as a bystander.
- You can report anonymously but give details that will help us help you.

Key Messages: Respect - Anti-bullying week

This Anti-Bullying Week we want to Make A Noise to our MPs about bullying!

Research shows that 30% of children have been bullied in the last year alone – with approximately one child in every classroom experiencing bullying each day. Bullying has a significant impact on a child's life, and this can last well into adulthood with adults who were bullied as children being more likely to leave school with no qualifications, be unemployed and experience a range of mental health issues.

This is why we need your help to call for change! Please join us in promoting our following asks:

- Schools should be required to have an anti-bullying lead responsible for coordinating an anti-bullying strategy.
- Initial teacher training should include anti-bullying training: Currently, teachers are not required to even know what bullying is as part of their initial teacher training.
- There should be a duty to record bullying in schools in England as there currently is for schools in Northern Ireland.

We have a template email set up for you to use to contact your MP – so it couldn't be easier.

Your form group can follow this link to contact your MP:
