Contingency Dates

The awarding bodies have collectively agreed a contingency day for several years now which is always scheduled at the end of the GCSE, GCE AS and A-level exam timetables. The contingency day is in the event of national or significant local disruption to exams in the United Kingdom, being part of the awarding bodies' standard contingency planning for exams.

In the Summer 2024 Exam series the contingency days are Thursday 6th June, Thursday 13th June and Wednesday 26th June.

Timetable Clashes

The times and dates shown are the defaults which will apply to most students sitting the exam. Exam boards sometimes timetable more than one exam to take place at the same time, which can result in clashes for students studying both qualifications.

We have identified 1 pairing of exams where we have students entered for 2 exams scheduled at the same time. These are shaded in the list above and we will speak with the impacted students. To resolve these clashes, we are permitted to change the start times for the students effected and will be advising them of their individual start times so that all exams will still take place within the permitted period.

Internally Assessed/Non-Examined Assessment

The following are assessments which are not timetabled by the exam board, but participation is required in order for a student to achieve the qualification. Students will be advised of the specific time and date by their class teachers.
