

Little cat, big fear

Story starter!

With eyes as wide as saucers, the tiny cat observed the strange creatures around him. He didn't know where he was, but he knew it didn't feel right. They were furless, strangely shaped beasts that made noises he had never heard before. There were lots of them; weird and without whiskers, just staring and making a noise. With his ears pinned back and trembling with fear, he knew he had no choice but to move before they got any closer...

Can you finish the story?

Question time!

- Who are the strange, furless creatures?
- Where was the cat?
- Will he escape from those who are watching him?

Perfect picture!

Who or what do you think the cat can see? Draw from his perspective!
