Dear Parents and Carers...

First of all, thank you for your understanding regarding school closure today. As said in the letter yesterday, having three schools and a nursery in such a tight area is tricky, and not only are the roads and pavements immediately around school vicious this morning (and school street having been cancelled too), numerous staff struggled to get in yesterday from further afield (and would have today) and theirs and our children's safety and wellbeing takes precedent. We apologise for any inconvenience caused. With warmer weather and no more snow or rain expected over the weekend, we'll see you all on Monday.

Have a lovely weekend,

From us all at UPS

'Being a Behaviour Detective' parent workshop, with Jackie Tarpey, SEN consultant and Autism and Social Communication specialist

We are incredibly fortunate to welcome Jackie Tarpey on Tuesday at 2pm, in the junior hall. She will be doing a parent workshop (followed by some work with staff) on certain behaviours that we can look out for with our children, that will enable us to support them as appropriately and effectively as we can. It will undoubtedly be hugely beneficial and we hope to see you here.

Classroom Action

This week, we've been...looking at features of non-chronological reports; investigating and testing the permeability of rocks; creating stop motion animation; researching the mountain ranges of the UK; building dens; welcoming a surprise visitor; tried some fruit and veg from Trinidad and Tobago, linked to the text, 'Coming To England'; looked at the different bodies of water around the UK...and we took the chance to play in the snow a little...

Being More

Being more is integral to our school ethos and we wanted to say well done to these two today. First of all, great stuff, Florence...just before Christmas, she took part in her second performance for Footlights, playing Barnum's wife in The Greatest Showman. She was nervous but showed great resilience to overcome her nerves and did really well with her part! We are very proud of her!

Secondly, Vasilije has been impressing for his team, Moston Tigers Sabres, who won the MYSL Christmas Champions League Cup and have earned a promotion into the MYSL Premier League. We all play our part as part of different teams in our lives and it is great to see you showing responsibility as part of yours, Vasilije. Super 'being more'!
