We had the idea ...

A 3D printing device so that you can print your own trophies and certificates.

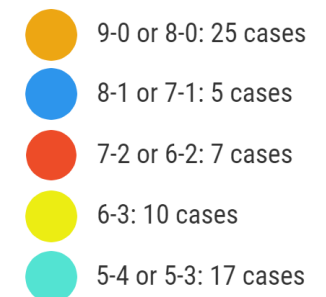

It's a bit like Wikipedia and Instagram so you can add things on and takes things off. So new activities can be added.

We decide to make it like a Wikipedia because everyone has a different hobby and maybe they would like to write how and why they do it.

We also decide to make it like a Instagram by putting a voting pole so everyone can tell us what there favorite sport/hobby is

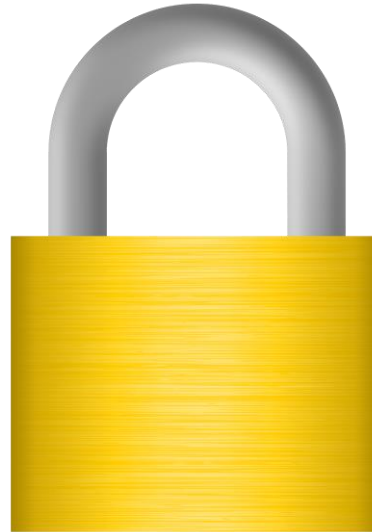

WIKIPEDIA
The Free Encyclopedia

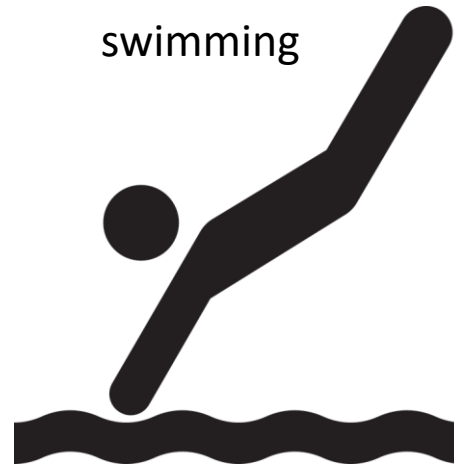

It needs to go to a moderator before its added on.

We all decided it had to go to the moderator and they would have to approve the things you added. If they approve the hobby or interest you created, it would lock in place and no one would be able change it.

We chose to add the option to 3d print a trophy or certificate with the different hobbies on as we believe everyone should get a chance to be rewarded for doing what they love the most.

swimming

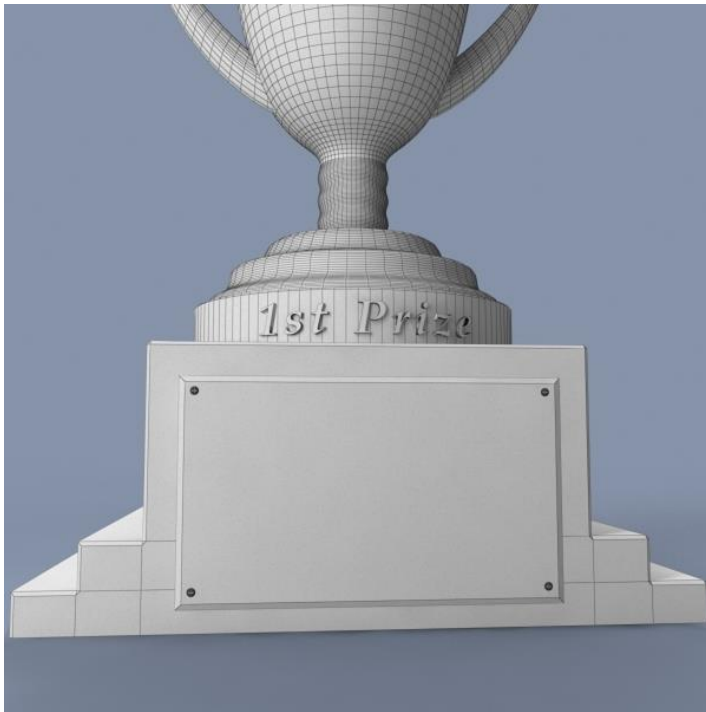

trampolining

Choose or make your own!

We think that every child should be able to get a reward for what they love the most. We created a trophy system where you can chose which Lego character and what hobby you would like to be written on the trophy.

From doing this, it will make so many children and adults happy because they will get a feeling of accomplishment no matter what hobby or sport they are doing.
