Monday

We will be planning a brochure to attract customers to Dougal's new submarine tours. You can plan on paper or use the template in this pack. Make sure that you include some of the features of a persuasive text as well as adverbs and expanded noun phrases to describe.

Wednesday

We will be writing up our travel brochure ready for customers to read. Your task is to produce the final brochure (again, you can use your own paper or the template in this pack). You should use subheadings to split up the information for the reader, use the present tense and the third person.

Thursday

You are now a customer who has taken one of Dougal's submarine tours. Unfortunately, it was a terrible experience and your task is to write a complaint letter to Dougal. You can use the template in this pack or your own paper. You are writing in the first person because it is your experience.

Friday

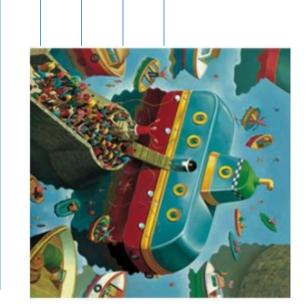

Today, you are Dougal and you have visited Atlantis. You need to send a postcard to someone back home to tell them all about your amazing trip. You are writing in the past tense and in the first person.

Dougal's Submarine Tours

Santander

Spain

Dear Mr Dougal McPhee,

During my recent visit to Spain, I decided to have a day trip out on one of your 'top of the range' submarines. I'm afraid to say that is was a huge disappointment and I was very unhappy with the overall standard of the trip. I am writing a formal letter of complaint to express my dissatisfaction and to outline what I would like from you as a result.

The problem started as soon as I had boarded your vessel. Although your brochure promised amazing views, this was very far from the truth. Your submarine was overflowing with people which made it very hard to see a thing! When I eventually did get a seat next to a port hole, the glass was grubby, dusty and covered in sticky finger prints! Surely, a cleaner would be a good investment for the future? Furthermore, your brochure promised an array of interesting sea life but I'm not sure slimy seaweed and the odd crab really counts as amazing, do you? Overall, I think your brochure was very misleading and I was misin formed as to what to expect.

While I was on board, I visited your café to get myself a bite to eat and something to drink. Unfortunately, my appetite disappeared when I saw the selection of luke warm (and rather dry) meals on offer. As none of these meals appealed to me, I had an extremely average cup of coffee and a kit kat for lunch instead. Both very overpriced may I add! Since I couldn't see much out of the windows, I visited your on board souvenir shop where I bought a toy submarine for my son. Sadly, this toy was a disappointment too because it started to fall apart as soon as I left the ship.

First of all, I demand a refund of my ticket by the end of the month. Secondly, I'd like some reassurance that you will address my issues to make sure that no one else has as bad an experience as I did.

Yours sincerely

Bob Smith
