

Using Rewards

Top Tips

Children like to please us, but some of the ways we want them to behave aren't easy for them to learn

It's easier to learn a new behaviour if we are appreciated when we remember it

Reward effort as well as achievement

Reward little and often, and remember that our time, pleasure and attention are the best rewards of all what we pay attention to is what we get more of

Listening to our children

Top Tips

One of the greatest gifts we can give each other is to listen

In our busy lives it isn't always easy to stop what we are doing so we can listen closely to our children and value what they say - but it's worth it

Taking time to listen to our children builds trust and honesty

If we listen to our children they will learn to listen to us and to each other what children need is a good listening to!
