

1b. Explain how the commas change the meaning of the sentences below.

Shall we eat grandad?

Shall we eat, grandad?

4a. Explain how the comma changes the meaning of the sentences below.

On a whim, I invited my parents, David and Anne, for lunch at the weekend.

On a whim, I invited my parents, David and Anne for lunch at the weekend.

2a. Label the boxes A, B or C where A means a comma should be used, B means a comma could be used and C means a comma should never be used.

Julian loves cooking his family and watching television.
 Convince me.

5a. Label the boxes A, B or C where A means a comma should be used, B means a comma could be used and C means a comma should never be used.

If you leave your shoes on the floor I will trip over mum.
 Convince me.

3a. Look at the sentence below.

Julie saw a giraffe, holding a pink balloon.

Which statement is true?

- A) Julie was holding a pink balloon.
- B) The giraffe was holding a pink balloon.

Rewrite the sentence so the other statement is true.

6b. Look at the sentence below.

In her spare time, Yasmin enjoys watching television, writing stories, and fairy-tales.

Which statement is true?

- A) Yasmin enjoys writing stories and fairy-tales.
- B) Yasmin enjoys writing stories.

Rewrite the sentence so the other statement is true.