

Challenge: Once finished, put these in order of most risky to least risky and explain your reasoning.

Your friend is going to a party and has invited you along. You don't know the person hosting the party. Write down some of the risks.

Would you risk it?
Give a reason for your choice.

1. _____

You have heard a rumour going around school about your friend and you are not sure whether to tell them. Write down some of the risks of telling your friend and some of the risks of not telling them.

Would you risk it?
Give a reason for your choice.

3. _____

You are staying at your friend's house and they have asked you if you want to taste some of their mum's alcohol. Write down some of the risks.

Would you risk it?
Give a reason for your choice.

5. _____

You need to cross the road and there is a pelican crossing a little further down but it will add a couple of minutes on to your journey. Write down some of the risks of not crossing at the pelican crossing.

Would you risk it?
Give a reason for your choice.

2. _____

Your friends are all going to the park after school. Write down some risks in going along.

Would you risk it? Give a reason for your choice.

4. _____

You have received a message from someone you have met online asking you if you want to meet up. Write down some of the risks of meeting up.

Would you risk it?
Give a reason for your choice.

6. _____

