

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT NEWS

Nothing but the best

28th April 23

Another great week has been had at Wellfield Academy. Our Year 10s have started their practice exams and have shown a great attitude towards them, which we are sure will continue next week. We have focussed on the theme of Eid further developing students understanding of different faiths and we have communicated our exciting plans for Coronation. We are really looking forward to this community centred celebration, part of our British culture and modern history!

THIS WEEK'S BIG EVENT: CELEBRATING EID

Inclusive

Community Centred

This week our Assistant Headteacher Mr Carroll has led assemblies about Eid, which Muslim's celebrated either last Friday or Saturday to commemorate the end of Ramadam. Mr Carroll is not Muslim but in support of our Muslim students has fasted throughout much of Ramadam, he hasn't broadcasted this, but I know the students he wanted to support, really appreciate it. As a community centred and inclusive school we have raised awareness of Ramadam throughout this holy month for our Muslim community and would like to wish everyone a Happy Eid by saying 'Eid Mubarak' to all.

All students in school are guided by Fundamental British Values which we teach through Personal Development and the wider curriculum. Tolerance and respect are values that we want to be part of the character of all of our students and we will continue to celebrate different religious festivals to help to educate and to nurture this attitude.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING: HOUSE COMPETITION IDEAS

Last week during tutor time students shared ideas about how we can increase the level of competition within houses. Democratically chosen student council representatives brought those ideas to a House Student Council Meeting this week. House Progress Leaders, who led these meetings were very impressed with the contributions and we look forward to implementing some of them and continuing to work on improving house identity and competition.

NEXT WEEK'S MAIN EVENT

A letter has been sent to parents/guardians today outlining our Coronation plans and these were officially shared with students in tutor time today. invitations have been sent via ClassCharts.
