

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT NEWS

Nothing but the best

15th March
2024

Another busy week at Wellfield Academy with the theme of British Science week inspiring students to consider the importance of Science. The behaviour curriculum has also continued with the focus of Bullying. In this session students were reminded that bullying is saying or doing something that is intentionally meant to hurt or upset someone, specifically targeting someone, to persistently act in a hurtful or upsetting way towards someone and to continue these behaviours when aware of their impact. As an inclusive and community centred school bullying is not tolerated and students are continually educated on this as part of their personal development.

THIS WEEK'S THEME: BRITISH

WEEK

Aspirational

This week has been British Science Week focussing on the celebration of science, technology, engineering and maths. The weekly reading task was linked to the key word of the week "innovation" and how this can relate to science. The assembly was led by Miss Hancox and Mrs Ferguson, both very passionate about science and so delivered a very aspirational assembly. In the personal development tutor slot students participated in a fun science quiz, working together as a team to compete to be the winning tutor group. The week has been a great success, thank you to Miss Hancox and Mrs Ferguson for organising it all.

PRIDE GROUP

Inclusive

We are very proud of our extra curricular offer at Wellfield Academy. We have recently re-added the Pride Group. This is currently run by Professional Range Youth Workers from Chorley & South Ribble Children and Family Wellbeing Service. They also run a group in the community called POUT "Power To Be Out" that you can find out more about by emailing pout@lancashire.gov.uk. or by your son/daughter talking to them in the lunchtime session on Wednesdays.

UPCOMING FOCUS

Community
Centred

Next week is Global Recycling Week. We would like students to start to reflect on how they can look after their environment more, in school and in the community and we will be discussing ideas.
