Chair of Governors	Charlotte Christie	Charlotte Christie	17.07.23

This policy was updated on 22nd February 2023.

The policy must be reviewed and updated by July 2025.

When marking and giving feedback staff seek to identify success, strengths and next steps for pupils in order to make assessments and inform planning.

Aims

- To have maximum impact upon pupil outcomes
- To inform future planning
- To improve pupil motivation and self-esteem
- To provide further opportunities for self-evaluation
- To correct and assess
- To evaluate teaching effectiveness
- To extend and challenge
- To model high expectations

Objectives

Pupils will be able to:

- explain what the 'teacher' marks mean;
- comment confidently on their own learning;
- reflect on their own progress and achievements;
- understand their next steps in learning.

Teachers will be able to use formative assessment, derived from marking, to inform future planning.

Intent

All stakeholders within the community will be aware of marking practices and codes. Teachers and teaching assistants will follow these guidelines seeking clarification from Mr Richard Earl via 'marking surgeries' as necessary. The 'Marking Key' will be displayed and referred to in all teaching areas.

When a pupil works with an adult as part of a guided session or when marking in the moment:

Red pen is used by the adult to draw 'stick people' at the top of the pupil's work. Plus, x and the number of children in the group.

- This indicates that the child has worked with an adult and has received instant and integrated feedback during the lesson.

When working in guided groups with pupils, teachers may find it useful to annotate pupils work using a red pen during the session.

- Annotations should reflect the intervention and may take the form of modelling, prompting, correcting etc.

Red pen is used by the adult to initial pupil's work when marking in the moment.

All independent work is 'checked' by the class teacher/TA and initialed in a blue pen.

- marbles and college points may be used for rewards where appropriate (please see behaviour for learning policy).

Where the pupil outcome is 'as expected', WALT is underlined in blue.

Where the pupil outcome is 'as expected' but there are 'minor corrections' required, WALT is dotted blue to indicate this and, where necessary, corrections are addressed by the teacher using a red pen. This may be recorded on the Distance Marking (DM) sheet.

When the pupil outcome is 'not as expected', the WALT is dotted red to indicate this and the teacher will make a note of the child's planned next steps on the DM Sheet.

- Next steps will include a wide range of strategies including verbal feedback, change of teaching group, further challenge, support of an adult or resource for the next lesson etc. This needs to be recorded in detail as the DM sheet is to be used by teachers as an aide memoir.

When the pupil has 'exceeded expectations', the teacher will use a blue arrow next to the underlined WALT.

When children produce excellent work, they are rewarded with a Quality Counter which will contribute to a whole school reward.

As a high status reward e.g. for personal best, teachers will send the pupil to Mr Simon Isherwood for praise and feedback. Mr Isherwood will initial the work, give praise and provide written or verbal feedback.

Peer and self assessment:

Pupils from Year 3 (younger pupils when they are ready) should always be given adequate time to self (green) or peer (purple) check their work to limit the number of errors made and corrections needed.
