

The 'shun' sound at the end of a word is can be spelt 'tion', 'sion', 'cian' or 'ssion'. 'cian' is often for occupations (jobs).

'ssion' is often used if the root word ends in 'ss' , 'mit' or 'cede' / 'ceed'.

Practice writing in a sentence with your neatest joint up handwriting. On the next page there are more examples.

Words	Practice 1	Practice 2	Practice 3 mathematician
impression politician
musician
confession
discussion admission
obsession
Also practice these two Year 3 common exception words:
complete
consider

- cian

musician optician
electrician technician
magician dietician
politician beautician
clinician physician
mathematician

- ssion

mission discussion
session confession
passion obsession
impression aggression
permission commission
expression transmission profession

Hint

The word 'mission' is particularly useful to learn as it can be combined with many prefixes to make new words.

permission
emission
omission
submission
admission
transmission